SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Salvador Allende, Communist backed Socialist seeking to become the world's first freely elected Marxist president, won a razor's-edge victory Friday night over two other opponents in Chile's presidential election.

Allende's narrow victory threw the choice of a president to govern Chile for the next six years, starting Dec. 1, into the hands of the national Congress.

The interior ministry said that on the basis of official returns from 80 per cent of the estimated 3.2 million votes cast, Allende defeated his nearest opponent, rightist ex-President Jorge Alessandri, 871,207 votes to 842,843.

The third candidate, the government nominee, Radomiro Tomic, trailing far behind at the halfway mark in the ballot counting, earlier conceded defeat. His vote total at the latest count was 661,405.

The constitution provides that if no candidate achieves a simple majority — 50 per cent plus one — in the elections, the Congress must choose a chief executive from among the first two finishers by Oct. 24.

In the past, Congress has invariably proclaimed as president the popular vote winner. Voting strength of the present Congress is almost equally divided among the myriad political parties which supported the three candidates in the current election and so, the eliminated candidate, Tomic, in this instance, could conceivably throw the support of his followers for or against one of the two top election finishers.

AARON H. STOVITZ TALKS TO NEWSMEN
Replaced as Manson Trial Prosecutor

Press Gag Violation Blamed

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

The chief prosecutor in the Tate-LaBianca murder case was removed from the 12-week-old trial Friday apparently because of an off-the-cuff remark to newsmen that violated his boss' "don't talk to the press" order.

Dist. Atty. Evelle Younger cleared up the mystery of why Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz was not in the Los Angeles Superior Courtroom Friday while the trial was in progress. Stovitz, the district attorney claimed, was needed because his administrative duties as chief of the trials division of the DA's office, had built up.

It was learned, however, that Younger was angered by Stovitz' aside to newsmen regarding Tate-LaBianca murder defendant Susan Atkins ailment this week: "She's better than Sarah Bernhardt."

The district attorney earlier had issued a strong warning to Stovitz and his co-prosecutor, Vincent Bugliosi, not to talk about the case to newsmen.

SEVERAL members of the press were called into the district attorney's office and questioned about the remark made Wednesday and used in some press and radio reports.

Stovitz has worked on the case since the massacre murders were discovered in early August of last year.

Still pending against Stovitz is a defense motion that he be cited for contempt of court for violating a court gag order. The action was based on an interview Stovitz had given to an underground magazine, detailing the case against hippie leader Charles Manson and his three girl disciples.

Stovitz will be replaced by Donald Musick, 34, who joined the DA's office in 1963.

MEANWHILE, Bugliosi carried on by himself Friday in questioning seven witnesses — mostly police officers, and mostly about the .22 caliber revolver allegedly used in the Tate slayings.

Steven Weiss, 11, who found the gun in his backyard and had a hard time convincing police it was the murder weapon, brought both laughter and disbelief to the trial.

Weiss told the crowded courtroom he found the weapon on a hill behind his Sherman Oaks home when he was ordered in ACTION LINE is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Friday. Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Goodnight!

Q. Some time ago a Russian ship was in the Port of Long Beach. The captain presented me with a bottle of Midnight in Moscow cognac. He said it was named for a favorite song of the Russians. Can ACTION LINE tell me where I can get a recording of it? R.H., Long Beach.

A. "Midnight in Moscow," a popular American tune in the early 1960s, has been recorded by Kenny Ball and his orchestra on a single Capp recording. It also is available on the Paul Mauriat album, "Of Vodka and Caviar," and on Guy Lombardo's "By Special Request" album. Songwriters later put words to the music, and the resulting song, "You Can't Keep Me From Loving You," was recorded by Petula Clark.

That's Military Security?

Q. Last year a Marine lieutenant colonel stationed at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station lost control of his car and crashed into mine which was legally parked.

My insurance company paid for my car minus the $100 deductible I had to pay. I want to collect this $100 from the Marine since his insurance company refused to pay, but I have been told by the base lawyer at El Toro that a person in the military does not have to appear in small claims court if he doesn't wish to. Is there some way I can take this man, who is being harbored by the military, to small claims court? T. J. B., Long Beach.

A. You can try. Whether you can get a judgment against him will depend on how the judge interprets the federal law outlined in the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act of 1940. This act states a judgment by default shall not be entered against a person in the armed forces when he is out of the area on military orders. The act is meant to protect a service man against such a judgment when it would be a hardship on him to defend himself because of his military duty. Recently, a Small Claims Court judge in Santa Ana dismissed a case brought by one Marine against another, both stationed in the immediate area, when the defendant failed to appear in court. This act was the basis for the dismissal.

Pressed for Prints

Q. On June 16 I sent two pictures to Pasadena Color Lab, Box 4022, Pasadena, to have color pictures made from them. I sent two checks of $2.82 each. I have not received the pictures and have not heard from the company. Can you help me? I would very much like to have the two pictures I sent to them returned. R. D. E., Bellflower.

A. You should have your photographs and the prints you ordered soon. Jerry Roberts, manager of Pasadena Color Lab, said your order is being worked on and he apologized for the delay. He said copying color photographs when you don't have the original negative is not a fast, simple job and they were not satisfied with the first results so they had to repeat part of the process. He said if you aren't satisfied when you receive the pictures, he will refund your money.

Water Matter

Q. I hope you can help me. Four years ago we bought a soft-water machine. It had a lifetime guarantee. Now it has quit working and I can't contact the company since they apparently have moved. The company is the California Manufacturing and Equipment Co., 15600 S. Main St., Gardena. Can you find out where this company has moved? Mrs. D. S., Garden Grove.

A. California Manufacturing and Equipment Co. was bought by Sparkletts Drinking Water Corp. and their name was changed to Foremost Water Systems. The address remains the same and Foremost services products sold under the old name. A spokesman there said if you will call them at 321-5111 they will send a serviceman out to check your machine.

OK Busing Plan for Inglewood

A modified busing plan designed to satisfy a court order requiring an end to racial imbalance in the Inglewood School District was approved in Superior Court Friday.

Judge Max F. Deutz, who gave the busing order last July 22, approved the plan drawn up by the district for the school year starting this month.

In his July 22 ruling, Deutz said the system was practicing de facto segregation. He ordered the school board to come up with a plan for integrating the city's 13 elementary schools, two junior highs and two senior highs.

In the busing plan, the present north-south dividing line determining secondary school districts would be changed to an east-west line.

In the elementary school plan, children would spend about half the day at their neighborhood school and then be bused to another school for the remainder of the day.

SMOG-FREE WEEKEND LIES AHEAD

Lovers of the outdoors who don't enjoy themselves over the Labor Day weekend won't be able to blame it on the weather.

Weather Bureau predictions for the Southland call for a high of 77 today, and 80 Sunday, with clear skies both days, and no smog.

Sailing enthusiasts may find offshore breezes slightly stiffer than usual, says the Weather Bureau.

Runway Vote Decision Hailed

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

The leader of a proposed recall movement against four city councilmen favoring increased airline service at Long Beach Airport Friday endorsed the councilmen's surprise decision to submit a runway extension proposition to the voters.

In a continued meeting of the city council Friday morning, councilmen reversed their Tuesday decision to remove the airport issue from the November general election ballot.

A second reading of the measure to qualify it for the ballot is required in-day at 9 a.m. in another continued meeting. The proposition would authorize extension of the east-west runway paralleling Spring Street in order to reroute outgoing jet airliner traffic over the San Diego Freeway and an industrial zone west of the airport.

The proposed ordinance would not affect the council's decision of last Tuesday to authorize leases for use of airport terminal facilities by Pacific Southwest Airlines and Air California, which in effect, gives both airlines the right to start Long Beach service.

Favoring the runway extension ballot measure Friday were Councilmen Bert Bond, Paul Deats, Russell Rubley, E. F. (Ted) Cruchley and James Wilson. Voting against it were Mayor Edwin W. Wade and Councilmen Thomas Clark and Wayne Sharp.

All but one of those voting for the ballot proposition have been named as subjects of petitions to be circulated by the Long Beach Recall Committee, headed by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Richards, 5524 Wardlow Rd., chairman of the Wardlow Park Improvement Association. Wilson is protected from recall moves until Oct. 7 by a city charter provision requiring six months service.

"I'm willing to go to the people on this issue," said Mrs. Richards, following the council action. "But I think the whole issue should be on the ballot."

"The council should also rescind its action approving the airline service. It doesn't make much sense to let the people make the decision on the runway without letting them decide how it is to be used."

Councilman Cruchley, who offered the motion Friday to put the matter

California Jobless Rate Rises

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's unemployment rate rose from 6.2 to 6.5 per cent last month, although the number of employed increased and unemployed persons decreased.

The Department of Human Resources Development reported Friday the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate went up because of an increase in the available labor force from 8.69 million in July to 8.74 million in August.

The HRD said the number of persons out of work declined by 6,000 during August to a total of 555,000. It reported that the number employed rose by 55,000 to total 8.18 million, matching the all-time high set last June.

Main employment gains were recorded in manufacturing, up 30,000, and agriculture, up 23,000.

Nationally, the unemployment rate climbed to its highest point in six years in August as the number of persons having jobs dropped by 400,000 during the month, the government reported Friday.

A Labor Department spokesman said the rise in the jobless rate last month, from 5.5 to 5.6 per cent of the labor force, was statistically insignificant. But a top AFL-CIO economist said the real

Eban Hints Israeli Attack on Missiles

United Press International Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban hinted Friday night at possible Israeli military action to wipe out surface-to-air missile sites near the Suez Canal if the U.S. cannot persuade the Egyptians and Russians to remove them.

Eban, in a television interview Friday night, said Israel had the right to act on its own against missile bases Egypt allegedly set up in violation of the Middle East cease-fire, that "we have taken this up with the United States and the United States has recognized the facts."

"Israel is entitled by the principle of reciprocity to take action on the political level and on any other level it deems necessary," he said. "We are now pursuing political methods."

"There is not one member of the cabinet who differs about the principle of reciprocity. But as a body we believe that our present steps are the best ones and have not been exhausted. Any other contingencies had better not be publicly aired."

Cairo dispatches Friday said some Egyptian officials believed Israel might try preemptive air strikes against the missile sites and that Israel had such a strong lobby in the U.S. that it might pressure a reluctant Administration

Bandit Gets $1,600 at Safeway Store

A gunman escaped with $1,600 in cash Friday after holding up the night manager of a Safeway store at 12226 Carson St., Hawaiian Gardens, Lakewood sheriff's deputies said.

The bandit, described as being in his early 40s, 6-foot tall, 180 pounds, balding and wearing a mustache, had a snub-nose .38 caliber revolver wrapped in newspaper when he accosted the manager shortly after 9 p.m., detectives said.

Communists Massing for Monsoon Offensive

Combined News Service

SAIGON — The Communist high command was reported massing one of its largest forces of the Indochina war Friday for a monsoon offensive against South Vietnam. The report came from Communist diplomatic sources in Phnom Penh, Cambodia. They said the offensive would come in two months.

Associated Press correspondent John Wheeler, reporting from the Cambodian capital, said the massing of up to 10 enemy divisions was largely confirmed by Cambodian intelligence officers. American military men in Saigon said they could neither confirm nor deny the report. But U.S. planes are keeping up an intensified bombing campaign of North Vietnamese supply routes in Laos and Cambodia to blunt a possible buildup.

Russians to Return U.S. Space Capsule

WASHINGTON — The Russians said Friday they were returning an "experimental U.S. space capsule" they had found, but the U.S. space agency said it probably is an old dummy Apollo moonship that blew off a Navy ship two years ago. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the capsule that was discovered by Russian fishermen in the Bay of Biscayne off the coasts of Spain and France would be transferred to a U.S. icebreaker today.

Top Russ Ballerina Defects

Combined News Services

Natalia Makarova, one of the Soviet Union's top ballerinas, defected to the West Friday night and was granted asylum in Britain, the Home Office said. Miss Makarova was performing as part of the Leningrad-based Kirov ballet at London's Royal Festival Hall.

She is the second top Russian ballet dancer to defect to the West in recent years. Rudolph Nureyev broke away from the Kirov ballet in 1961 and went on to a spectacular career.

"Miss Makarova applied to the Home Office Friday to remain in this country and her request was granted," a spokesman said. He said the ballerina told officials she wanted "to pursue her career" in Britain. Authorities said she was staying with friends somewhere in London.

Miss Makarova, who at age 30 is considered in her dancing prime, danced at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, nine years ago, playing the role of Giselle. She returned to London with the Kirov ballet in 1966, and critics called her performance in Swan Lake "outstanding."

Nureyev's breakaway from the Kirov ballet came in Paris. He traveled to Covent Garden, where his own genius was joined with that of Britain's top ballerina, Margo Fonteyn.

MY LAI RULING

But Connor said other charges of murder and rape against Hutto had been dropped.

They used a crane to place it on the truck and then rolled it onto the front yard of the new home where it has become a new focal point for not only the young Weniers but the other neighborhood children as well.

ICC Orders Railroads to Reveal Control

WASHINGTON — The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered Friday the nation's railroads to disclose for the first time the extent to which they control, or are controlled by, industrial conglomerates. Under the ICC order, issued as part of a railroad freight rate case, railroads must disclose who owns them and who they own. ICC spokesmen said the information required of the railroads will give the ICC its first clear picture of the corporate structure in which the nation's railroads operate. The order does not require the railroads to disclose who their stockholders are, information that has never been fully available either to the public or to the government.

2nd Strike Looms at 'Kingdom'

Disneyland executives and officials of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (IATSE) met with a federal mediator Friday in an effort to head off a strike by 48 employees scheduled to begin at 4 a.m. Sunday.

A spokesman for the Anaheim amusement park said no agreement was reached. The union has sought a $1 hourly boost over two years, and Disneyland has offered a three-year wage and fringe benefit package totaling $1.10.

Disneyland members of IATSE Local 504 include technicians, projectionists and stage hands.

The 15-year-old tourist attraction is embroiled in its first strike as a result of a walkout about a month ago of 29 members of the American Guild of Variety Artists. Twenty-four AGVA members have stayed on the job.

Disneyland has received no official notice the strike threatened for Sunday will take place, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said supervisory personnel will carry out the duties of IATSE members if the strike occurs.

In all, some 6,000 persons are employed at Disneyland.

Navy Ceremony Honors Memory of Viet Casualty

By BUCK LANIER
Military Affairs Editor

A Hacienda Heights family Friday was presented four medals to go with the memory of a son and brother killed in Vietnam.

The presentation was made at the Naval Station Administration Building here by Rear Adm. Monroe Hart because the Navy agreed with Nicholas Braico's conviction that his son's death deserved more than just "passing notice."

The elder Braico wanted a ceremony, with the highest-ranking Navy officer available making the presentation. He got it — after a letter to the Chief of Naval Operations.

Hospital Corpsman J.C. John Braico's medals — the Purple Heart, Combat Action Ribbon, National Defense and Vietnam Service Medals — were given to his brothers, Jimmy 9, and Nicky 7, and sister, Deborah, 10.

The 20-year-old sailor lost his life last May 5 near Qui Noh when the truck he was riding was booby-trapped. Braico was duty corpsman on a Marine bridge repair party.

His father wanted the other Braico children to "have something tangible to remember about the sacrifice their brother made." He wanted something beyond the routine delivery of medals.

The elder Braico's eyes matched three morning mist when Adm. Hart said:

"This young man did die a hero... his generation is fighting for freedom, and in his devotion to duty in his work he was truly a hero."

And Wanda Perry also wept.

She was John Braico's fiancée.

Oil Rig Fire Toll Under $1 Million

Damage caused by an explosion and fire early Friday on the oldest offshore oil platform in the Santa Barbara Channel was estimated at "under $1 million," Standard Oil Co. of California, operators of the unmanned platform "Hazel," said repair work would take six months.

The fire was put out by company workmen spraying seawater onto the platform from six barges.

Cause of the fire and explosion were not determined, but spokesmen said a fire apparently started in a gasoline-powered compressor and heated a pipe containing excess natural gas.

THE platform was placed in the channel three miles offshore in state tidelands in 1958. Its 12 wells have produced about 230 barrels of oil and five million cubic feet of natural gas daily.

The flames burned for four hours and were visible for 15 miles up and down the coast.

There were no reports of injuries or oil seepage to channel waters. A Standard official said an on-shore remote-control center stopped all pumping on the platform when the fire started.

Abortion Plea to Tribunal

United Press International

A southern California physician Friday asked the state Supreme Court to allow abortions to be performed in doctors' offices.

Dr. John Shriver Gwynne also asked the high court to stop legal proceedings against him in Los Angeles and Orange Counties until after higher courts had ruled.

Gwynne has a preliminary hearing set in Orange County for Sept. 17 and a trial set in Los Angeles County for Sept. 21 on charges of inducing abortions in the medical offices.

The state therapeutic abortion law requires that operations be performed in accredited hospitals.

THE PETITION also asked the high court to halt superior Court proceedings and hear Gwynne's case on its Los Angeles calendar Oct. 5-9 or to halt them until after a three-judge U.S. District Court hears an allied case in Los Angeles Nov. 2.

Gwynne has filed a brief as a friend of the court in the allied case.

Later in the day, the Supreme Court transferred Gwynne's petition to the state Court of Appeal for consideration.

Chicanos Defy Plea--Will Rally

Associated Press

Two traditional parades celebrating Mexico's independence were canceled in Los Angeles Friday.

But the chicano group which sponsored a rally a week ago that turned into a riot said it plans to go ahead with its Independence Day march and rally on Sept. 16 — permit or not.

Both the Mexican Civic Patriotic Committee and the Latin American Chamber of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley canceled plans for parades and other festivities for fear they would lead to a repetition of the rioting last Saturday in East Los Angeles.

Two men were killed in that disturbance, and rampaging youths caused what authorities estimated as more than $1 million damage in fires, vandalism and looting to local business establishments.

The group which sponsored the initially peaceful rally, the National Chicano Moratorium Committee, said it was applying for permits from the city and county to hold another parade and rally in the same vicinity on Sept. 16, the 160th anniversary of Mexico's independence from Spain.

But, a committee statement emphasized, the group intends to hold the march and rally even if permits are denied.

"We make it clear that it is our constitutional right to celebrate our own independence day in any way we see fit... to march and to assemble," the statement said.

"If the city Police Commission or County Sheriff's Department violates these rights by denying us a permit, it does not make our parade and rally illegal. It merely makes city officials violators of the law."

In another development Friday, an advisory body to the County Board of Supervisors recommended to the board that the riot be probed by the Justice Department and by an independent citizen's group.

After a three-hour hearing, the County Human Relations Commission said a federal investigation was necessary to ease tension in the Mexican-American community. But Robert L. Meyer, U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, said his office was satisfied with the investigation being made by the Sheriff's department.

Palos Verdes Cityhood Dispute Near Showdown

Controversy swelled Friday over whether opponents of a proposed fourth city on the Palos Verdes Peninsula have amassed enough petitions to block incorporation.

With County Assessor Philip Watson on vacation, the controversy threatens to hang over the issue of incorporating about 13.5 miles of the peninsula as the City of Rancho Palos Verdes until a scheduled showdown decision by the county supervisors Tuesday.

WATSON departed late Friday after filing a report which showed opponents of the incorporation falling far short of their goal — petitions signed by owners of land with 51 per cent of the assessed value of the property within proposed city limits.

If the goal is reached, the issue is automatically killed.

Homeowners in the exclusive area have said they favor cityhood because it would bring local control of zoning.

Opponents include corporations owning large sections of vacant land within the proposed city limits, because cityhood could preclude development.

WATSON'S report is clouded with uncertainty, however, because some petitions may not be valid and others may have been wrongly accepted, another county official said.

The report showed opponent's petitions represented only $11.5 million of the total $739 million in land assessments for the area involved.

Watson said an additional $25.37 million in protest petitions were "not verified."

That figure, Watson claimed, included some protests filed before July 24, when the incorporation was officially certified. Those would not be valid, he said.

BUT the county counsel's office has disputed Watson's interpretation of the cutoff date, saying such petitions should be accepted.

James Mize, Executive officer of the supervisors, also said Watson's total of $73.9 million in land assessments apparently includes about $7 million in publicly owned property which should be excluded.

"Mr. Watson's letter gives me no basis on which I can make a recommendation to the board," said Mize.

Back Book

Q. We ordered books and maps from the Back Country Book Store in Reseda a year ago. Part of the order was delivered, but three phone calls and two trips to their store got us only promises of delivery. They owe us $4.21. It isn't a lot, but could you help us get some action on this? Mrs. L. E. F., Norwalk.

A. She wouldn't tell us her name, but a woman at the Back Country Book Store, which is a part of Western Trails Publishing Co., told us "We don't answer questions from BBB's (Better Business Bureau) or ACTION LINES." Our earlier calls to this book store about other readers' complaints have brought promises to rectify consumer problems. But follow-up letters from these readers told us the problems weren't settled. We contacted Herschel Elkins in the Consumer Fraud Division of the State Attorney General's Office, 600 State Building, 217 W. First St., Los Angeles, Calif. 90012. He said you and other consumers with complaints about this store could write to his office and request a consumer complaint form. His staff will then investigate to see if there may be grounds for legal action against the store.

Youth Guilty in Death of Girl

Randall Eugene Ackles, 18, pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter Friday in the "boobytrap shooting" of his girl friend. He will be sentenced in Orange County Superior Court Sept. 25.

Ackles, who admitted he rigged a rifle that killed Melita Jay Bonham, 17, of La Palma, when she raised a window at his Anaheim apartment, had been charged with first-degree murder but pleaded guilty to the lesser charge before Fullerton Municipal Court Judge James O. Perez.

Newton, Panther Leaders Arrive for Convention

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Black Panther leader Huey Newton arrived in Philadelphia Friday as followers and radicals from around the country began registering for a Panther convention of "revolutionary oppressed people."

The arrival of Newton, David Hilliard, another Panther leader, and attorney Charles Garry at Philadelphia International Airport, coincided with an announcement by Temple University, granting use of the University's gymnasium today and Sunday.

Newton, the Panther national minister of defense who currently is free on $50,000 bail awaiting a new trial on a manslaughter charge growing out of a shooting of a policeman, is scheduled to deliver the convention's keynote address today.

"Power to the People," "Off the Pigs," chanted about 50 Newton supporters as the controversial Panther leader raised his right hand in the black power salute.

ASKED if he thought there might be trouble over the weekend in a city already racially tense, Newton said "You have to ask Rizzo that."

The reference was to Police Commissioner Frank

JOBLESS

significance was the drop in the number of persons holding jobs.

"They can't say that is insignificant," said the AFL-CIO's Nat Goldfinger, "because this has been the trend for several months."

Harold Goldstein, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in the Labor Department, argued that unemployment in August was essentially unchanged, having been around 5 per cent since May after rising steadily from 3.4 per cent in December.

"Jobless rates for most major groups in the labor force showed little or no change in August," Goldstein said. "The jobless rate for teen-agers increased significantly, from 13.9 per cent to 15.9, its highest point since April. Most of the rise occurred among white girls."

The governments' figures showed jobless rates for blue collar workers continued to blimp in August while white collar unemployment went down.

Goldstein said unemployment rates for white collar workers, after reaching a 10-year high of 3.1 per cent in July, fell to 2.7 per cent in August mainly because of less joblessness among professional, managerial and clerical workers. The jobless rate for blue collar workers went up from 6.6 per cent to 7.0 per cent during August.

The decline in payroll employment fell most heavily on the manufacturing and construction industries.

Sluggish Economy Continues in State

Recent gains in the stock market did not come soon enough to help out the Southern California economy during August, Security Pacific National Bank reported Friday.

A rise in department stores sales offset declines in bank debits, building permits and real estate, according to the bank's economic research department.

"Latest available labor statistics apparently reflect general economic sluggishness and continued layoffs in the aerospace industry," said Arch D. Hardymont, vice president of the bank.

Hardymont noted sea-

L. Rizzo whose men raided three Panther centers Monday and who had sought to ban the meeting.

"I'm here really to help the people get free from their oppressors," he said.

A number of plainclothes policemen mingled with the crowd, some directing traffic.

Police confiscated two rifles, three handguns and ammunition, and took in 27 young people for questioning Friday after stopping two convoys of cars entering the city.

Twenty men and two women were picked up in three vans by one group of policemen after a search of their vehicles uncovered three pistols and a bandolier of ammunition.

Chief Inspector Joseph O'Neil quoted the 22 as saying they were from East St. Louis, Ill., and were heading for the Black Panther convention.

PATROLMEN also stopped two other cars and took in five men after two rifles were confiscated.

Those arriving Friday said they represented assorted militant and radical organizations, including the Gay Liberation Front, Women's Strike for Peace, The Resistance and the Young Lords.

Others identified themselves as draft resisters, ex-soldiers, teachers, women's lib advocates and high school and college students.

Auto Mishap Kills Boy in Santa Ana

A 7-year-old Santa Ana boy was fatally injured Friday when struck by a car as he crossed the street near his home, police said.

George Olveda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Olveda, of 214 N. Garnsey Ave., was hit at 4:55 p.m. at the intersection of First St. and Parlon Avenue. He died an hour later at Santa Ana Community Hospital.

The driver of the auto, Anne B. Cathy, 23, of Huntington Beach, was not cited. Police said the accident is still under investigation.

Costa Mesa Tot Drowns in Pool

A Costa Mesa child drowned in a backyard swimming pool Friday after he wandered through an open gate, police said.

Michael DeCarlo, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeCarlo, of 3252 Colorado St., died at Costa Mesa Memorial Hospital at 6:15 p.m.

The boy was found in the pool at the rear of 3240 Colorado, by neighborhood children, investigators said.

sonally adjusted unemployment in Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties has risen.

THE LATEST statistics for July, showed an increase in the eight counties to 5.9 per cent, compared with an even 4 per cent in July 1969.

However, the bank's index of business activity in Southern California, which utilizes the years from 1957-59 as a norm, was estimated at 206.3, up 2 per cent from an estimated 202.3 in August, 1969.

The scale is based on 100 for the 1957-59 period.

School Integration Woes Dot Southern Landscape

Associated Press

A federal judge in Birmingham, Ala., warned a group of white parents against interfering with integration of three rural schools as more desegregation occurred in Southern schools Friday.

U.S. District Judge H.H. Grooms, at the request of the Justice Department, threatened the parents with $100-per-day fines if they persist in interfering with operation of schools in Talladega County, Ala.

The Justice Department, intervening in its first case since schools began opening in the South under a variety of desegregation orders, claimed parents virtually took over the schools. School officials confirmed the parents staged sit-ins that disrupted class.

Grooms ruled that his decision must be tacked "to the schoolhouse door."

WHITE children in many communities have stayed home across the South since new desegregation plans to eliminate dual school systems went into effect two weeks ago.

Absentee figures were sketchy. School officials say it will be at least next week before they can provide concrete figures.

There are laws requiring school attendance, but enforcement has been largely ignored.

The Georgia Association of Educators has appointed a task force to look into charges of misassignment, demotions and firings of teachers as a result of desegregation.

COMPLAINTS from Georgia teachers about mistreatment in the shuffle to desegregate faculties are mounting, especially from black teachers.

More than 80 black teachers, and school principals are boycotting schools in Hancock County in east Georgia. They are charging the county still maintains a dual system because all 250 of the system's white children are assigned to one school.

About 2,700 black children are assigned to three schools in Hancock under a federal court order.

Daily marches and protests have taken place at Sparta in Hancock County for two weeks.

SCHOOLS open at Albany in southwest Georgia next Tuesday and an unchallenged neighborhood zone plan is expected to leave two elementary schools black and one white.

Schools at Norfolk, Va., opened unevenly Friday, but some buses going to newly integrated schools were empty.

Crucial schools in Norfolk's desegregation plan are three intercity schools — Booker T. Washington High, Jacox Junior High and Ruffner Junior High.

Many white children were not attending. But Friday was orientation day, and the first real test comes Tuesday when classes begin.

NORFOLK is the fourth major city in Virginia to open its schools this week under new desegregation plans. The others — Richmond, Roanoke and Lynchburg — opened Monday without incident, although attendance at Richmond still is far below normal.

Hundreds of teachers have been transferred at Memphis and Nashville, Tenn., by a court order calling for increased faculty desegregation.

The specified 4-1 ratio of whites to black in Nashville does not always hold true. In one school there is only one black teacher on a faculty of about 20.

The grand dragon of the Virginia Ku Klux Klan failed in a bid to secure a federal warrant issued for a judge who ordered forced busing to achieve desegregation in Virginia.

ROBERT S. Hudgins, head of the United Klans, Realm of Virginia, sought the arrest of U.S. District Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr., but U.S. Atty. Gerald Lowe refused.

Hudgins argues that busing violates the Civil Rights Act of 1964, but Lowe said the judge was interpreting the Constitution, which takes precedence over laws passed by Congress.

At Cameron, S.C., Billy Outlaw's two sons and a daughter are the only white children among the 800 blacks in the city's public schools.

Outlaw said the development is causing no problems.

"They seem to be enjoying it," he said. His 9- and 10-year-old sons and a 6-year-old daughter attend St. John's school.

MANSON

fix the sprinklers less than a month after the Tate and LaBianche murders.

"I brought it to my dad by picking it up by the tip of the barrel because I wanted to preserve the fingerprints," the sixth grader testified. "I was careful not to touch the rest of the gun."

BUT THE police officer who responded to the boy's call wasn't as careful, the youth said.

"He touched it with both hands . . . all over the gun," Steven said demonstrating with his hands. The courtroom burst into laughter.

Disbelief set in when the boy said the officer didn't know how to unload the gun and had to be shown. The officer then took two live cartridges and seven shell casings from the gun, fingering them all, the young witness said.

Three and a half months later — in mid-December — the boy said he again called the Van Nuys police to remind them that they had the gun and it fit newspaper descriptions of the gun used in the Tate killings, Aug. 9, 1969.

"WE TOLD them they had this gun and we thought it might be connected with the murder," the boy testified.

It was only at this point that police matched the gun with bullets found in the victims and at the scene of the Tate murders.

The gun apparently had been thrown over an embankment into the boy's yard about a mile and a half from where clothing, allegedly used in the murders, was found.

Firearms expert Sgt. William J. Lee testified that only the bullet found in the shirt of Hollywood hairstylist Jay Sebring could positively be identified as being fired from the weapon.

BULLETS and fragments of bullets found in the bodies of Polish playboy Voltyck Frykowski and 18-year-old Steven Parent had "insufficient striations" to make a positive comparison, Lee said. However, he added, he found "nothing to rule out the possibility that they could have come from the gun."

The testimony of 18-year-old Michael Hendricks, who admitted he was sent to a mental hospital for psychiatric examination because he had a "hang-up with guns" was challenged by defense attorneys.

The youth, dressed in prison garb, was questioned out of the presence of the jury in an attempt by the defense to prevent him from testifying.

Judge Charles Older ruled Hendricks "competent to testify," however, the court session ended before he could testify with the jury present.

Rubbish Firm Officials Freed

A Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Friday dismissed charges against five Santa Barbara rubbish company officials who had been accused of diverting company funds to get a rate increase.

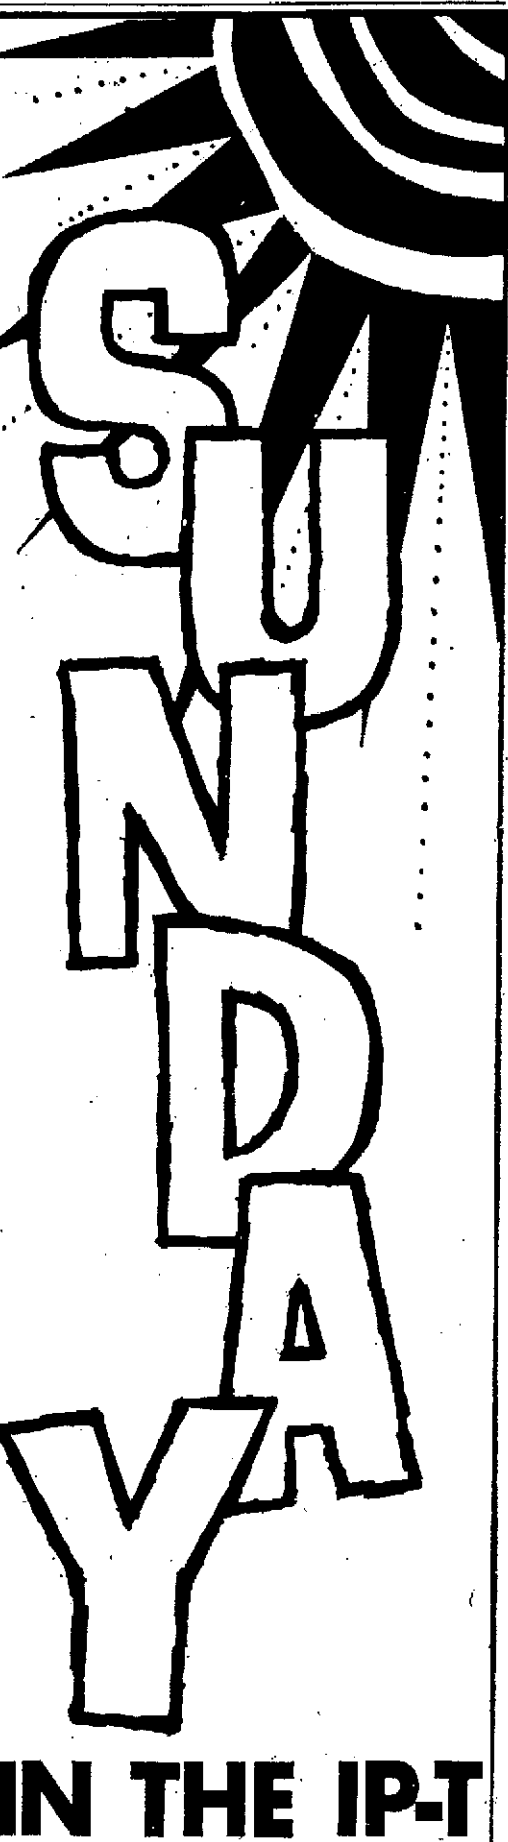

Judge Thomas W. Lesage gave no reason for the dismissal.

At the same time Lesage refused to dismiss charges of state income tax evasion and filing false tax refund claims against Lawrence A. Collins, 49, former president of Public Sanitation Service Co. He ordered Collins to return to court Oct. 2 for setting of a trial date.

Reagan Rejects Special Tax Session

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan cast cold water Friday on suggestions that he call the Legislature into special session to take another crack at his tax-reform plan.

"There just wouldn't be any point to it unless some of the recalcitrant legislators say they will change their vote," he told reporters at a bill-signing ceremony in his outer office.

Incomplete Report Hit by Allott

Fears Campus Study May Set Off New Unrest

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., expressed concern Friday that the Scranton Commission may whitewash the new left political movement and "pour kerosene on the flames" of campus unrest this fall.

Allott, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he feared that the commission's report "may do even more damage than has already been done by what I think were flamboyant inflammatory, prejudiced and irresponsible actions . . . during months of hearings."

"There is reason to fear that the forthcoming report may be a flaccid whitewash of the violent new left political movement that is openly seeking to capture or destroy our great universities."

FORMER Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, chairman of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, said in Washington that "it is premature to either comment on or speculate about the contents of our report to the President as it is still in the process of formulation."

In a speech before the annual meeting of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Allott said there were "raging confrontations" on the campuses.

"We need to douse these — and the incendiaries who are lighting them — with cold water," he said. "But the commission report may be about to pour kerosene on the flames."

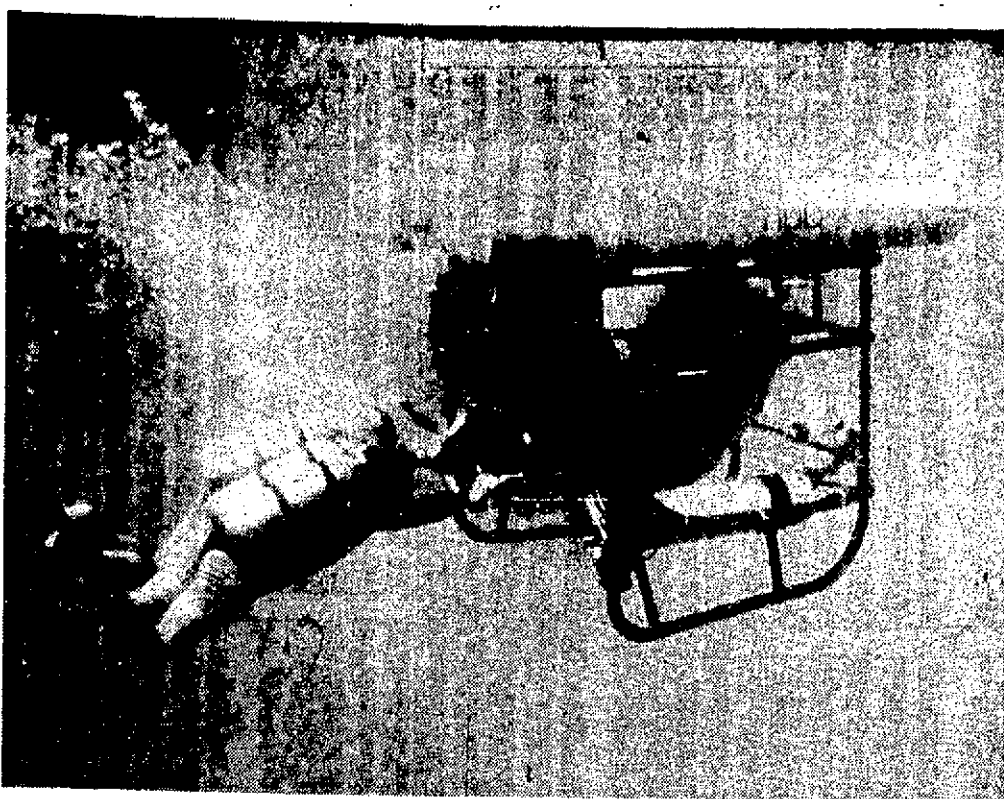

Allott absolved President Nixon of responsibility in selecting the commission members. "I am convinced that responsibility for this commission and its makeup rests heavily on the shoulders of a few of the President's senior domestic advisers."

"In fact, if the nation's domestic affairs are upset this fall by campus disorders, part of the blame will attach to the commission on campus unrest, and to the President's advisers who assembled it."

Refinery Leaks Oil in Wilmington

A leaking storage tank at a Humble Oil Co. Wilmington refinery spilled oil over a dike wall and into the street Friday, but officials said it was stopped before reaching sewers, storm drains or the nearby harbor.

Humble Oil crews remained at the scene repairing the leak and cleaning spillage, a company spokesman said.

St. Paul Bombing Fizzles

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — An explosion Friday ripped a five-foot hole in the ground but did not rupture a 1.3-million-gallon fuel oil tank at the Union Oil Co. at St. Paul, police reported.

Officers at the scene along the Mississippi River said the blast apparently was caused by a bomb. No injuries were reported. About two hours earlier, police received a telephone

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Chemicals at a processing plant of the Monsanto Co. exploded Friday, heavily damaging a two-floor brick building and injuring 20 plant employees, three seriously.

Officials of the plant were unable to determine immediately what set off the blast.

tip that a man had placed a package in bushes in front of an entrance to Midway National Bank of St. Paul.

Police discovered the bomb was ticking and members of the Twin Cities Arsenal were called to disarm the bomb.

Authorities said the bomb was made of two or three small sticks of dynamite, a battery and a clock.

Police received the tip at 8:30 a.m. before the bank, about three miles west of downtown St. Paul, had opened for business.

The St. Paul-Minneapolis area has had numerous bombings and bomb threats in recent weeks.

4 University Bombing Suspects on FBI List

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Four young men charged with bombing the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin were added to the FBI's Most Wanted List Friday.

The FBI announced their addition to the list in Washington as a search for two of the young men in upstate New York continued without success.

Fugitive warrants and charges of sabotage, destruction of government property and conspiracy were filed against the four Wednesday.

They are Karleton L. Armstrong, 22, and his brother, Dwight A. Armstrong, 19, reportedly admirers of Fidel Castro; David S. Fine, 18, who resigned as one of four night editors of the UW campus newspaper in April, and was linked by the FBI to Students for a Democratic Society; and Leo F. Burt, 22, a summer student at Wisconsin and former member of its rowing team.

They are accused by the FBI of the Aug. 24 bombing in which a physics graduate student was killed, three other persons injured and $8 million worth of property damaged.

FEDERAL officials believe at least two of them may have gone to Canada. On Thursday, Donald Armstrong of Madison, father of the brothers, said Karleton had told him in a telephone conversation he had not bombed the building. The call apparently came from New York.

Affidavits filed in U.S. District Court in Madison earlier indicated the Armstrong family had wired money to the brothers in New York.

The FBI said the fugitives should be considered armed and dangerous.

In another development Friday, the co-owner of a Madison area airport said Dwight Armstrong had 25 hours of flying instruction in the same plane which was used in an abortive attempt to bomb an Army munitions plant Jan. 1.

Field Morey said the younger Armstrong had solved in the Cessna 150 which was stolen from the Morey Co. Airport in Middleton Jan. 1.

AN FBI affidavit filed in U.S. District Court in Madison Wednesday alleged that Dwight and his older brother, Karleton, 22, told Maxim Stiler, a Minneapolis man, they were responsible for the unsuccessful attempt to bomb the Badger Army ordnance plant at Baraboo last New Year's Day.

Sauk County Sheriff Ralph Hearn said a warrant had been issued Friday for Karl Elton Armstrong on a charge of possession of explosives for unlawful purposes in the attempted bombing of the Wisconsin Power & Light Co., substation at Prairie Du Sac Feb. 22.

Hearn said a fingerprint on an unexploded home made bomb had been identified as Armstrong's.

Also Friday, the state board on government operations approved a $720,500 protection plan for the University of Wisconsin. Under the plan, Madison city police will regularly patrol the campus. The officers will augment the 30-man campus police force, which will be increased by five patrolmen under the plan.

Addition of the four bombing suspects brought to 14 the number of most-wanted fugitives, an FBI spokesman said. It was the highest number in the 20-year history of the list.

Black revolutionary teacher Angela Davis, wanted in connection with the recent kidnap-murder of a judge in San Rafael, was placed on the list last month.

Terror Seminar Takes No Risks; Meets in Secret

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Officials of nine major midwestern cities met behind closed and guarded doors at an Omaha hotel Friday to discuss how they can band together to combat violence and terrorism.

Omaha city detectives were stationed at the door to the meeting room which was closed to reporters. Several private guards were also present.

In announcing the meeting Thursday, Omaha Mayor Eugene Leahy declined to reveal where it would be held, saying "there might be picketing; someone might plant a bomb."

Mayors of Des Moines, Iowa; Lincoln, Neb.; Tulsa, Okla.; Madison, Wis.; Sioux City, Iowa; Minneapolis and Omaha sat in on the sessions. Denver and St. Paul, Minn., were represented by other city officials.

Nader Says GM Lied About Corvair Hazards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader accused General Motors officials Friday of lying and covering up GM evidence which he said showed early Corvairs are likely to turn over at low speeds and leak poisonous gases into the passenger compartment.

A GM spokesman responded: "We deny his charges and reiterate that the Corvairs were soundly designed and are safe cars to drive."

Nader, whose criticism of the Chevrolet compact in his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed," contributed to the death of the Corvair last year, contended in a letter to Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe that "GM manufactured and maintained a massive lie."

Nader named GM Board Chairman James M. Roche and President Edward Cole as responsible, and said "they should both resign."

Nader urged Volpe to require GM to notify all Corvair owners of safety defects.

clined immediate comment.

The bulk of Nader's criticism was directed at the 1960-63 Corvairs, which he described as "exceptionally facile roll-over candidates."

Nader said General Motors conducted engineering studies in April and November 1962 showing that Corvairs rolled over at speeds of 26 to 30 miles per hour. He identified the studies by code and file number for Volpe.

General Motors was unable immediately to say whether the citations by Nader were legitimate and whether the studies showed what he claimed.

DESPIITE the tests, Nader said, GM made no attempt to notify the million-plus persons who bought Corvairs in those four years of the alleged defect. And Roche and Cole, in appearing before Ribicoff's subcommittee in 1966 "stated what GM's own tests said was not so about the vehicle's handling," said Nader.

Nader also contended that all Corvair models permit poisonous carbon monoxide gases to seep from the engine into the passenger compartment. He said GM engineers concede the defect privately but that the corporation has never recalled the cars.

GM started production of Corvairs in 1959 and ended it in May 1969. Sales had plunged from 205,000 in 1965 to 86,000 in 1966 — the year Nader's book came out.

"While to some, the cessation of Corvair production means the vehicle is history, the fact that Corvairs are being driven every day hundreds of thousands of miles by hundreds of thousands of drivers under latent hazards should be considered intolerable by your department," Nader wrote Volpe.

Shut Coffers to McCloskey, GOP Urged

By LOU CANNON From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The lid to Republican congressional campaign coffers may be shut tight this year as far as a liberal California GOP congressman is concerned.

REP. PAUL MCCLOSKEY The Coffers Are Bare

Members of the House Republican Policy Committee and other influential Republicans have been asked to deny support and financial aid to Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., R-Portola Valley, on grounds he assisted the re-election campaign of Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, D-N.Y.

A co-target with McCloskey is Rep. Donald W. Reigle Jr., R-Mich., another GOP liberal who is frequently at odds with party leaders.

The appeal came from Rep. Sam Divine, R-Ohio, in a letter to GOP Policy Committee members that sharply criticized activities of McCloskey and Reigle as "detrimental to the Republican Party." Divine is not a member of the committee himself, but the letter was believed to be the suggestion of Rep. Bob Wilson, R-San Diego, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

REIGLE, drew the wrath of his colleagues by campaigning for Lowenstein, one of the early leaders in the 1968 antiwar movement that backed Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy for President.

Lowenstein is in deep re-election trouble in his home district of Nassau this year, primarily as the result of a reapportionment that boosted Republican registration.

McCloskey, a consistent critic of the Indochina war is prominently featured in Lowenstein's re-election literature. "At Lowenstein's leadership in convincing student demonstrators across the nation to forego violence and lawbreaking has been one of the greatest contributions to national welfare by any member of Congress in 1970," says the Democrat's re-election pamphlet.

MCCLOSKEY has frequently been at odds with the House Republican leadership for his liberalism. A ranking this week by the Americans for Democratic Action gave McCloskey a score of 67, more than twice the score of any other California Republican.

The Devine letter declared:

"Some of our cohorts are probably upset by the reported activities of Republicans Reigle and McCloskey . . . it was suggested that I contact each of you with the hope that you write a letter to Bob Wilson (national chairman) Rogers Morton (deploring this type of shenanigans and suggesting that activities of this type are detrimental to the Republican Party) (and) that we are better off without this breed and that all campaign funds be withheld."

McCloskey, who is vacationing, was not available for comment. But he remarked earlier, when the Lowenstein use of his quotation was first disclosed, that he saw no difference between what he was doing and the bipartisanism of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who recently praised Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., a leading advocate of military preparation.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

Fish Smell-But Not As Well in Dirtied Water

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK — A hitherto unpublished consequence of river and lake pollution is its disruption of the sense of smell in fish. And that, said Prof. John Bardach, can be as bad for fish as poison.

Some fish are known to be extremely keen smellers. Bardach and his assistant, Trudy Villars, were presenting laboratory proof that the common variety of catfish called bullheads recognize friends and foes among other bullheads and conduct their other social affairs via their sensitive noses.

Each bullhead has its individual smell which is its "chemical signature" and is instantly recognized by all the bullheads with which it is acquainted, they said.

"The existence of chemical communication in aquatic animals is one of those subtle evolutionary adjustments to a complex ecological situation that may well be upset by man," they argued in "Natural History," the journal of the American Museum of Natural History.

"MAN-MADE additives to natural waters," they said, "can stop chemical recognition in two ways — they may depress the smelling cells in fish which receive chemical messages or they may add or subtract from the code of smells."

"Thus, messages may not be received or their meaning may be altered," they said. "These are sublethal pollution effects. They do not kill the animals but they confuse them so that they cease to behave normally."

"Eventually fish may be decimated in this manner just as effectively as if they had been poisoned outright."

Dr. Bardach and Miss Villars have hundreds of tanks of bullheads in their laboratory at the University of Michigan. In them they have demonstrated such bullhead social doings as mouth-fighting, mouth-display, (in which a bullhead opens its mouth threateningly in "a silent roar" to intimidate another bullhead), and "high intensity breathing, indicating of anxiety or stress."

THESE reactions are set off by the individual smells given off by other bullheads. They cited this example: in one tank was one large and tough bullhead. In an adjacent tank were three medium-size bullheads, living together amicably.

During the night they flipped themselves over into the big one's tank. When the scientists opened up in the morning they discovered the big one had beaten up the smaller fish. They were returned to their own tank.

IN TIMBERLAND 2 Polluters Face $555,957 in Suits

KALISPELL, Mont. — Four damage suits totaling $555,957 and alleging fluoride and hydrocarbon pollution of vegetation and surrounding timberlands have been filed against the Anaconda Aluminum Co. and the Anaconda Wire and Cable Co. of Columbia Falls.

The two suits follow by four months the filing of a similar suit asking $1,650,000 for "trespass of fluorides" against the same two companies.

The suits were filed by attorneys of four residents around Columbia Falls, a small lumbering and mining city of 2,100 in northwestern Montana.

The suits allege the aluminum company, a subsidiary of the giant Anaconda Co., and the cable company were "casting dangerous, noxious pollutants" on the land.

In the complaints, the four claim the pollutants have caused permanent damage to salable timber and other trees on the land and impaired agricultural use because fluorides in vegetation make the crops unmarketable and cause injury to livestock which eat the vegetables.

Robert Limmer of New York, counsel for the cable company, said he would have no comment until the company has been served with notice of the suits.

The attorney for the aluminum company, Bernard Kostelnik of New York, was unavailable for comment.

The suits also alleged the fluoride damage has ruined the land for further timber production and recreational uses because the trees are dead or dying, the clean air has been polluted and trees have been weakened so insects have moved in.

In the suit filed in June, Harold and Mable Dolholm of Columbia Falls, claimed the "trespass of fluorides" had resulted in timber kill on the land and that the land has depreciated because of the emissions.

BIRDS CUT LIGHT BILL

NEW YORK — The flood lights that illuminate the top of the Empire State Building were turned off Friday night to eliminate hazards to birds flying south, a spokesman for the building said.

The Audubon Society says migrating birds become confused by light diffused in clouds.

AS PUBLIC NUISANCES

Ecology Suit Hits 10 Airlines

BOSTON — Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn filed suit against 10 airlines Friday asking that they be ordered to install equipment to stop their jet engines from causing air pollution at Logan International Airport.

Quinn asked Suffolk Superior Court to order the immediate installation of pollution abatement equipment, require the airlines to make periodic reports on the progress of the modification and provide information on all new pollution abatement devices available to the aircraft industry.

The suit charged the airlines with maintaining a public nuisance.

Carriers named in the suit are Allegheny, American, Eastern, Mohawk, National, Northeast, Pan American, Trans World, United and Air Canada.

Thomas Lyons, a spokesman in Boston for the Air Transportation Association of America, said that 31 airlines agreed last Jan. 20 to cooperate with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in instituting a program of pollution abatement in jet engines, scheduled for completion in 1972.

Lyons also said the airlines contribute only one per cent of total air pollution, according to government statistics.

The attorney general told a news conference at Logan Airport that his environmental task force made a summer-long study on which the charges against the airlines are based.

Quinn noted the HEW sponsored program was under way, but said, "Unless there is the compunction of a court order, we cannot expect compliance."

"Why should we wait until 1972," Quinn said in response to a question. "The airlines can take more immediate steps to halt their pollution."

"The very least effect of this type of pollution is severe discomfort. At worst this pollution may constitute a serious health menace for those of our citizens who reside in communities adjoining the airport."

"Voluntary cooperation programs are fine, but they have no teeth for enforcement," Quinn said. "What we propose is injunctive relief for our citizens."

L.A. COUNCIL ENDORSES BOND ISSUE

Proposition One — The state's proposed $250-million "clean water" bond issue — was endorsed Friday by the Los Angeles City Council.

The unanimous support for the November ballot issue followed a brief flare-up between Councilmen John Ferraro and Arthur K. Snyder.

Snyder said it was "ridiculous" to act quickly on a plan before there was assurance it would benefit the city of Los Angeles.

Ferraro produced a memorandum from the city's chief legislative analyst showing passage of Proposition One could cut the cost of financing the city's sewer-treatment facilities.

This pointed out the federal government now pays 33 per cent of the cost of such projects while the city must put in 67 per cent. However, if the state makes a 25 per cent contribution, the federal government will put in 55 per cent, leaving the local share at 20 per cent.

NATURAL GAS FOR SMOG-FREE OPERATION IS IN BED OF PICKUP TRUCK
—Staff Photos by BOB SHUMWAY

EVERYONE HAPPY 'Clean Air' Truck Has Pickup, Too

By GILBERT BAILEY
Contributing Editor

We were pulling onto the Long Beach Freeway as the cars and trucks whizzed by at midmorning. Visibility was one half to two miles because of fog and smog, but the pickup truck we were in wasn't contributing to that bad air.

"It has enough. It'll get there," said photographer Bob Shumway as he gunned onto the freeway to join the traffic flow. It was our own personal test of a motor vehicle powered by natural gas, one which reduces air pollution by up to 90 per cent.

Dual Fuel Systems Inc., a subsidiary of Pacific Lighting Corp., provided the truck, which runs either on natural gas or gasoline . . . just pull a handle.

IT WAS BOB'S idea. He plans to get a pickup and wonder whether it could be converted to natural gas.

Jim Hiers, once an airline flight engineer but now project coordinator for Dual Fuel Systems Inc., explained the process.

"The unit costs $300; total cost of conversion is between $400 and $500," he said.

The Southern California Gas Co. has converted its 1,200-vehicle fleet to natural gas. Disneyland uses natural gas for its vehicles, and both the state and federal governments are testing it.

First I drove, then Bob. It doesn't have quite as much pickup on natural gas as it does with gasoline, but as Bob put it, "There's enough."

The engine ran the same. I couldn't tell the difference between natural gas and gasoline.

The natural gas was contained in scuba tanks in the bed of the pickup.

ADAPTORS ON ENGINE

Hiers, who was frank about the disadvantages, was even more emphatic about the advantages.

Natural gas costs about half as much as gasoline for the same mileage.

It is cleaner, and cost of maintenance is less — 35,000 miles or so for a set of spark plugs.

And the air is cleaner. Natural gas in the vehicle burns so cleanly it approaches the standards the federal government hopes to enforce on autos by 1980.

The gas company has stations where vehicles can be fueled, but most of the use is restricted to fleet operations because of fueling problems. However, if you had a compressor at home, you could fuel your own vehicle off the gas already piped in to your home.

As to the natural-gas-powered pickup, it worked. It even satisfied a newspaper photographer — a representative of a group not always known for conservative driving.

Catholic Pupils Will Register

Registration for incoming students at St. Bartholomew's Catholic School, 4635 E. Fourth St., will be held 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Sunday in the parish hall. Classes begin Sept. 10 with half-day sessions for the first two days.

School hours will be 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. beginning Sept. 14. There will be a parent-teacher-welcome program at 7:30 that night.

Birth certificates and vaccination records are required to register.

The school's year-long fund-raising projects will start Sept. 21 with an aluminum can drive. A monthly newspaper drive is also being planned as a fund-raising antipollution project. The first drive will run Sept. 25-28.

RULING ON RECALL

Petition Setback Irks Seal Beach Backers

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

Two opinions issued this week by Seal Beach's interim City Atty. James Benton have sharply antagonized the proponents of the recall of Councilman Conway J. Fuhrman and the groups opposing Mayor Morton A. Baum.

The first was Benton's declaration that the 1,068 signatures on the petition to recall Fuhrman were insufficient because they did not constitute 25 percent of the city's electorate. Circulators of the petition had relied on an earlier legal opinion by the former city attorney, James Carnes, that they needed only 25 percent of the voters in Fuhrman's District 2.

The other Benton action was his rejection of the request by Mrs. Margaret Anna Klein, 1211 Marlin Ave., for issuance of a complaint charging Mayor Baum and Councilmen Fuhrman and Thomas Hogard with misdemeanor violations of the city charter.

MRS. KLEIN, in her report filed with the Police Department and investigated by it, charged that Baum and the two councilmen, in firing former City Manager Lee Risner July 28, had violated "a clear and unquestioned" provision of the charter which says that a city manager cannot be removed from office within 90 days of any councilmanic election.

Since Mayor Baum was elected in a run-off vote

June 30, the councilmen's action constituted a misdemeanor, Mrs. Klein asserted.

(The other two councilmen, former Mayor Lloyd Gummere and newly-elected Harold Holden, voted against Risner's firing.)

Late Friday afternoon Seal Beach City Clerk Jerdys Weir was awaiting "further word" from City Atty. Benton as to what to do with the petitions submitted to her earlier in the week.

Seal Beach, unlike most Southern California cities, elects its councilmen by districts, rather than by the entire electorate. This is why the circulators of the petition thought they needed only 25 percent of the voters in Fuhrman's district. Benton's ruling that 25 percent of the city-wide vote is necessary brings up the question, they contend, of whether the entire city's electorate would vote for the new councilman if the recall were successful.

"At this point," Mrs. Weir said, "I don't know whether to return the petitions to the people who submitted them or to complete the verification and then return them. I asked Mr. Benton for instruction but, so far, I haven't heard anything."

Benton was unavailable for comment Friday.

Mrs. Klein, who says she is "growing madder by the minute," made a trip to Santa Ana Friday to submit her report and Benton's reply to it to the district attorney's office to see if she can get some action on it there.

HOWEVER, DA officials had told her earlier that they would look at the documents and give her an answer later, probably next week. Attached to Mrs. Klein's report to the Police Department were copies of the city charter and the state government code. A police investigator had called all of the councilmen except Fuhrman and attached eight pages of investigation to the file.

Mayor Baum and Councilman Hogard had refused to comment on Mrs. Klein's charges but Councilmen Holden and Gummere answered in detail, indicating they agreed with Mrs. Klein. Holden gave a detailed account of what he says occurred during the firing of Risner, and Gummere (along with former City Attorney Carnes) agreed to that account.

Mrs. Klein said it was the last page of Benton's three-page reply that irked her the most.

There Benton told Police Chief Lee Case that if any other citizens attempted to make crime reports on what he called "discretionary legislative acts" of the City Council, the members of the Police Department should refuse to take them.

"There have been several other reports filed with the Police Department," Mrs. Klein says. "I wonder what has happened to them."

NAVY ASSIGNS SUPPLY CHIEF

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Capt. Joe G. Schoggen became the Long Beach Naval Supply Center's sixth commanding officer Friday, relieving Capt. Rex S. Coryell.

The new skipper, whose facility spends $16 million here each year, takes over from Rear Adm. Charles Becker. Capt. Coryell has been interim commanding officer since Aug. 12 and has reverted to executive office.

A civic delegation to the ceremony was headed by Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade; Rear Adm. H.J.P. Pley Jr., San Diego's Supply Center boss, was the ranking military guest.

Capt. Schoggen said the supply center faces an austere budget and his goal is "to make our fewer dollars more efficient. Imagination and positive thinking will enable us to discover the ways to do this."

"We are here to serve the fleet. I have seen the figures, and they show 89 per cent of requisitions in the past year have been for the fleet units, all getting increasingly complex as new ships join the fleet."

CAPT. CORYELL pointed out that while he was

CAPT. JOE SCHOGGEN
Supply Center Chief

supply officer on the destroyer Ingersoll in 1952 he was involved with keeping control of 3,400 mechanical parts.

Today the nuclear missile frigate Truxtun has 61,500, he said, an increase 18 times over.

Capt. Schoggen, serving his first tour in Long Beach, comes from Washington, where he was deputy commander for planning and policy in the Supply Systems Command.

He is a native of Norman, Okla., is married and has two children.

Education School Gets Acting Dean

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A former superintendent of schools in three California districts has accepted an appointment as acting dean of the school of education at California State College at Long Beach.

Dr. John B. Brinegar succeeds Dr. Thomas Weiss, who resigned in July and charged "political intrusion" by Gov. Ronald Reagan and state legislators into state college affairs.

The 54-year-old Brinegar, a veteran of 18 years as superintendent at Fallbrook, Morongo and Claremont, joined the CSLB department of educational administration in September, 1969.

"There is no doubt that public education in California is facing the most difficult period it has probably ever faced, both in terms of financing and in meeting demands for change and innovation," said Brinegar following his appointment.

THE NEW dean, expressing confidence the state's colleges will "emerge stronger than ever," also said the Legislature's passage of Assemblyman Leo Ryan's teacher credentialing bill represented "an opportunity to improve professional training."

"We have had changes in credentialing before," said Brinegar. "Perhaps the Ryan bill is not the medicine we would have prescribed, but we shall live with it."

In a July letter to Dr. Donald Simonsen, then acting president of the college, Weiss had cited the impending passage of the Ryan bill as one of the reasons behind his resignation.

Weiss said he felt the new law lessened chances for the CSLB school of education to gain full accreditation.

The Ryan bill, recently signed by the governor, makes three major changes: (1) transfer of teacher licensing from the

DR. JOHN BRINEGAR

Education Department to a commission of 15 members appointed by the governor; (2) emphasis on mastery of subject matter and deemphasis on "how to teach" courses; and (3) simplification of the teacher credentialing structure so that all fall into one of two categories, teaching or services.

Cruise Firm Returns to Ex-Owner Citizen Urges Action on Crosstown Freeway

Princess Cruises, Inc., Los Angeles-based operator of Princess Carla and Princess Italia holiday cruise ships to Mexico, Canada and Alaska, will return to the control of one of its founders.

Boise Cascade Corp., which purchased the leisure cruise firm less than two years ago, has announced the sale to Seattle industrialist Stanley B. McDonald, a former owner.

The firm agreed last month to return the Princess Carla to its owners, Costa Lines of New York, but will continue to operate the ship through Oct. 16.

Scott W. McCausland, general manager of Princess Cruises, said the Princess Italia will continue cruises under the new management.

Delays in construction of Pacific Coast Freeway, the so-called crosstown freeway, are "unfair, unjust and beyond reason," according to Karl S. Taylor, 316 Obispo Ave.

In a letter to the City Council, which will be on Tuesday's agenda, Taylor urged councilmen and other city groups to start a "campaign for action."

Taylor noted it has been about five years since the council approved routing of the freeway.

$605,000 Church Sanctuary OK'd

A permit for a $605,000 sanctuary and Sunday School for the First Assembly of God Church at 3400 Pacific Ave. was issued Friday.

The two-story stucco building will be erected by Rediger-Nelson Corp. It was designed by the architectural firm of Cowan & Bussey.

L.B. MISSILE SHIP OPEN TO VISITORS

A modern missile destroyer, USS Somers, will be open for visiting this weekend at Long Beach Naval Station's Pier 15. The 418-foot ship will be open today and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

AEROSPACE GIANT DOWN TO EARTH

A top aerospace firm which for a decade has led the field in military and space systems design and development is retooling for a new battle — against ills that plague urban man.

In a three-part series Independent Press-Telegram Sunday Editor Ev Hosking details this metamorphosis in an El Segundo firm. There, in the big Aerospace Corp. "think tank," experts are developing solutions to pollution, some boom, midair collisions, and that ogre of urban sprawl — rapid mass transit.

Read the first installment Sunday.

"In spite of the fact that funds for the building of highways have been cut, the state has been building them in other areas right along," he contended.

TAYLOR SAID hundreds of property owners within the proposed right-of-way are unable to do anything with their property because of the pending condemnation, and some reports have indicated acquisition and construction may still be five to 10 years away.

"Either routing of this segment, which obviously is needed, should be rescinded, or the interested parties should 'get to cracking' for action," Taylor declared.

Garage Door Fried, Sports Gear Gone

Jim S. Proctor, 2051 Beverly Plaza, Friday told Long Beach police burglars entered his garage and removed sports equipment valued at $655.

$3,400 Cash Stolen

Cash totaling $3,400 was stolen from the home of Thomas Henry Kover, 2731 Bellflower Blvd., by burglars who forced open a window to gain entry, police said Friday.

Exhibits in Bloom

Flower buds from throughout the state will be in full blossom in Bellflower's John Simms Park today and Sunday during the 11th annual dahlia show. Approximately 150 growers will exhibit more than 3,000 blooms, competing for $500 prize money. Exhibits will be open for viewing from 2 to 8 p.m. today and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

JUNIOR LIFEGUARD AWARD

Chief Lifeguard John Olzewski looks on as Scott Smith, 14, receives Long Beach Junior Lifeguard program award from Dick Miller. Scott was named "most inspirational" junior lifeguard in program's afternoon session. Nigel Hill was named winner in morning session. Seventy boys 10 to 17 participated in the new program, which will be repeated next summer with at least 150 participants. Classes were conducted at the lifeguard station next to Belmont Plaza Pool.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

We've heard all kinds of rose problems, but never about the one you'll read about now. A lady purchased half dozen bare root roses in January this year, planted them all the same way, cared for and fed them periodically.

Five of the six roses bloomed beautifully and had several crops of lovely flowers. The sixth grows lushly too, but — no blooms, not even a one yet! We couldn't definitely answer that problem.

While M-Cing the birth of a new rose society, I posed this problem to the august assemblage of rose hobbyists from five other rose societies as well as the new and also prospective members. One answer was too much water, another too much fertilizer, still, another answer that the branches were trimmed before they matured to set bloom buds.

FINALLY one of the rose hobbyists called out, "It is a blind but rose hush!" He said this occurs but rarely.

We've written Bob Lindquist of Howard Rose Company, a rose hybridizer whose Command Performance new hybrid tea rose with lovely orange-red flowers won the AARS 1971 honors, along with two other growers' winners Aquarius a vigorous grandiflora rose with marked pink blossoms, and Redgold a floribunda with fiery bicolor yellow and red hot flowers. We'll let you know what his answer is about that non-blooming rose.

Strange as it may seem to some of you, it is not late to plant roses from containers that are available at nurseries.

Those roses were planted in containers early this year, roots have become established, just right to set out in the gardens. They'll get an additional root growth start before cold weather sets in.

Next year, you'll be glad you set them out now, because they'll be a year ahead of any bare root roses you may be contemplating planting then.

Continue deep watering roses as they need it. They'll welcome early morning shower baths during the hot weather. Better still, a gardener can water them with an overhead sprinkler attached to the garden hose instead of continually irrigating them.

SOME gardeners alternate the watering. One

MONEY-SAVER

No room for a vegetable garden where you live? Sure there is—if you use your imagination. Like using a pot instead of a plot. A "mini-garden" like this potted tomato plant, if properly tended, can trim dollars off your food bill.

time they'll irrigate, next time they'll overhead sprinkler water them long enough till they have a sufficient deep watering. Such a watering means 18 to 24 inches deep.

Gardeners who planted summer flowering annuals mid-March and aren't happy with the flowering results have an opportunity to prepare the soil for better winter-spring blooming annual flowers, or for perennial flowers too.

Dig up the finished blooming annuals. Water the soil well. Few days later rake the soil to level. Scatter one-and-a-half cups of bone meal or a flower-fruit maker pellet form fertilizer per each one hundred (10 by 10) square feet soil area. Spread evenly two inch layer of manure, and two inch layer of organic material over it.

"ORGANIC material" may be leaf mold, or pre-moistened sphagnum peat moss, or fine ground bark, or compost soil or a mushroom compost. Dig it all in a shovel depth. Water well.

Heavy-sticky soil should be watered well with a liquid soil conditioner that provides an acid action and breaks up soil compaction. Apply it properly through a hose and water pressure operated fertilizer gun. Medium to light soil usually doesn't need the soil conditioner.

Week or 10 days later dig over and deep water again. The soil is ready for planting a few days later.

We had an impressive soil improvement result when we tackled a heavy, sticky flower bed soil in the past, when we prepared a flower bed for a customer. The very few anemic-looking a n g l e worms in that soil were listless and seemingly had barely enough strength to burrow back into the soil to get out of the sun.

The plants were fed with a complete plant food during the early active growing season, and the flowering results were remarkably better.

THE SOIL was dug over and it was much more easy to dig that fall season. Having remembered the first soil preparation that spring and the listless angle worms, this time there were literally dozens of small pinkish-red wiry angle worms that vigorously dove back down into that loamier soil to get out of the sun!

Such soil preparation as we just commented about in the heavy soil kept it from packing too tight. It (soil preparation) also improves a sandy soil that is porous because the organic materials add body to it and retains the moisture longer.

JOBS TO DO NOW

You'll hasten quicker covering of the soil spaces between the immature growing dichondra lawn or hybrid bermuda, or St. Augustine grass, by top dressing the whole area with a lawn grade weed treated steer manure, or a fine top dressing organic material. Apply five sacks per 1000 square feet area. Keep the lawn moist till it has grown together.

Hurry as fast as you can and plant that dichondra lawn whether seeds sowing or plugs planting, also hybrid bermuda, or St. Augustine, because these lawns are heat lovers and grow most actively then.

FLORIBUNDA faded roses are cut off differently than from hybrid tea rose bushes. Cut off the whole faded flower head just above a selected single bud on the cane.

Continue foliage shower bathing camellias in late afternoon or evening to provide a humid condition. Snap off excess buds in clusters, leaving two good opposite flower buds. Feed young camellias an acid fertilizer. Fertilize the azaleas and rhododendrons.

Keep fighting the creeping oxalis in grass or dichondra lawn, by proper applications of the herbicide as recommended for this vicious weed.

Vacationing Highlight, Hair, and J.C. Penney

By LES RODNEY

Back from vacation. A salute to Mark Clutter's interesting and provocative articles on these pages.

In addition to some fierce tennis battles with a local religious leader, vacation highlight was a four-day journey down Oregon's gorgeous Rogue River in a raft — which is actually a rubber-type inflated boat of about big rowboat size.

This kind of trip, even more than backpacking these days, fulfills the basic dream of vacationing — taking one deep into the rejuvenating wonders of the natural world, far from and not giving a hoot about newspapers, radios, no, not even the Dodgers and Rams.

After a careening run through boiling and leaping white water and boulders, there are stretches of placid yet ever-changing beauty, and how about casually slipping over the side into the 70 degree waters and floating along with the downstream current, after the raft? A fierce water fight with the other raft, which dared come too close to your flagship. Putting in at one of the many icy clear streams which gurgled endlessly into the Rogue, following it up to a little waterfall and swimming hole, and savoring the lunch brought forth from a waterproof sack by the valiant boatman. You may even be entrusted, after a day or two, with the oars through a mildly tricky stretch of rapids.

Just a word on the college-age boatmen who run this operation — with skill, concentration, patience and high American spirit. One wore an Indian headband over hair somewhat longer than "clean cut," whatever that is. One had a wild black beard. A good reminder, if one needs it, that in the 16th chapter of the First Book of Samuel it says "... for the Lord seeth not as man seeth: for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."

Not judging young people by hair style, of course, ought to apply both ways, for some who make a cult of seeing wisdom and virtue in everything youthful and hirsute, as well as for those who automatically blow their cool, and their reason, at the very same sight. Around Mendocino on the northern California coast there were (in addition to some pleasant hairy summer wanderers), many pitiful young characters acting out a "life style" of apathetic, self-centered blowsiness — and worse.

Since we would surely get some queries on the river raft trips anyhow, we have no hesitation in supplying the name of the place where you can get information ... The American River Touring Assn., 1016 Jackson St., Oakland, 94607. They contract for trips for the Sierra Club, on other rivers as well as the magic Rogue. By the way, you don't have to be young and athletic to enjoy the river raft scene. On the trip before ours, there was a trio of ladies who were all even older than me!

"MY EYESIGHT is impaired, but my vision is stronger than ever," says J. C. Penney, who observes his 95th birthday this month. Mr. Penney, founder of the chain of 1,660 stores which bear his name, refers to his faith and his insistence on setting aside a portion of each day for the Bible. Incidentally, his eyesight isn't all that bad, either. He still works in the office.

LABOR DAY Sunday will be observed in Grace Methodist with members of the congregation asked to attend services wearing "the clothes and uniforms in which you carry out your job or major life activity." Interesting idea, but, Rev. Stan Brown, how about that lieguard?

HUMOROUS cartoon in "Christianity Today," leading conservative evangelical publication, shows a man of the cloth tied to the pulpit while a couple of angry parishioners approach with a stack of wood and a torch. He turns to another minister and says: "I'm not sure what I said, but it must have needed saying."

MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?

H. G. Wells once wrote that "Man has become a new animal, he can jump a hundred miles, see through a brick wall, bombard the atom, and analyze the stars, yet he goes on behaving like the weak, quarrelsome ape he used to be."

And Bishop Creighton adds, "Whenever you have gotten the ape and the tiger out of people, there still remains the donkey, a much more stubborn animal."

I suppose we do not like to be told that man is an ape, or a tiger, or a donkey. We much prefer to think of ourselves as angels in the rough, but the unequivocal testimony of human nature, of experience, of observation, of the Scriptures, and of our Lord Himself is that man is a sinner, a sinner who desperately needs to be made over again. This is what Jesus was saying to Nicodemus that night in the long ago, "You must be born again."

We don't hear very much about that today, but still we all need to face the fact that apart from the life that is ours in Christ, we simply exist like animals, like apes, or tigers, or donkeys.

The Lord Jesus Christ can make all the difference, a difference that includes past, present and future. If you have no church home, we invite you to worship with us tomorrow. Our theme is an interesting one, "THE DAY THE IRON SWAM."

Sincerely,

Frank M. Kepner, Pastor

INTERVIEW WITH VISITING CHIEF OF STAFF Corps Keeps Its 'Simple Faith' in Time of Theological Turmoil

By LES RODNEY

In a world of dizzying change and theological turmoil, it might be easy for an organization like the Salvation Army to lose the simplicity of its basic Christian belief, observes the Corps' international chief of staff.

But it hasn't lost it, says Commissioner Arnold Brown, here from London for the Southern California Division's annual evangelistic week, which concludes tonight and Sunday with meetings in Municipal Auditorium.

"We cling tenaciously to that simple faith," the 57-year-old leader said in an interview this week at his Long Beach hotel, "though this is a day of increasing intellectualism, and our own people are more educated than formerly. It is that basic faith which has endeared the Corps to millions."

THE SALVATION ARMY, whose name conjures up marching bands, earnest street evangelism, and merciful succor to the down-and-out, is perhaps better known to a new generation for its myriad of highly skilled social services, still to those in the most desperate need. It is also an official Protestant denomination, and, in fact, this spiritual side undergirds and motivates all its good works. Conservatives, evangelical and Bible-centered in its theology, the Corps by the very outgoing nature of its community thrust avoids the occasional sharpness between Protestant evangelicals and the "mainline" denominations, perhaps suggesting that Christians of whatever persuasion zeroed in on doing the Lord's work in the world have neither time nor inclination to quarrel with other Christians. Serene in its own clarity, the conservative Corps can even belong to the World Council of Churches without fretting over theological purity.

WINDUP MEET TONIGHT, SUNDAY IN AUDITORIUM

Commissioner Arnold Brown, Salvation Army international chief of staff, will address a public meeting tonight, 7:30 in Municipal Auditorium. The week-long evangelistic drive, which has featured personal encounter, will be climaxed Sunday when seven Southern California bands will march down Long Beach Boulevard into the Auditorium starting 6 p.m. for the final meeting.

Looking out of the hotel window toward the sea, the commissioner mused further over the question.

"In a day of radical theology, we must be UTTERLY radical. This is, going back to the original for clearer identity, to the root of the faith."

He made clear that he was not attacking theologians of the Robinson (Honest to God) and Cox (Secular City) stripe. They often, he suggested, have some stimulating value, and the Army has no fear of hearing their ideas.

"But," he said with the practical smile of one responsible for the "thin red line" of 25,000 officers directing the Army's work in 71 countries, "the Salvation Army must be a working religion, not one for theological titillation. We do not deal with the academic. Our principles must be applied right at the point of the actual individual people.

"Some have said the simplicity of the gospels is naive. Yes, in a way, it is naive. Jesus Christ was simple in utterance. Yet, His message was and remains profound truth for all men."

ARE THERE, the commissioner was asked, any currents for theological change within the Salvation Army?

"I wouldn't be honest if I said there were none," was the ready response. "In an organization of 25,000 officers and two and a half million Salvationists, that would be unlikely. However, if you take the pulse of the organization, it remains on the course of its simple faith, without any question."

This faith, he added, is not to be confused with methods, adapting the MEANS of projecting that faith in a changed world. "Not only do we have no quarrel with such change," he said, "but our methods are as contemporary as anyone's."

Far from being immune to what's going on in the world, he feels the Corps has a most realistic understanding of many current trends. On his own London scene, he noted, the Salvation Army does what it can to reach youthful drop-outs clustered around Piccadilly Circle, and what he termed "junkie's walk," an area where drugs are widespread.

As to possible motivating factors for the large number of youthful drop-outs, Commissioner Brown sighed.

"Yes, with infinite sadness it must be said that many of them have seen the double standards of the adult generation. There is so much to be said about parental delinquency, the need for some discipline throughout..."

"When I was recently interviewed by BBC, I was asked, how could I tolerate the strictness of the Army? I replied that I was quite happy, not chafing at all because of the need for discipline, and pointed to some recent instances where responsible discipline might have made a difference to some unfortunate young people."

DOES THE simple faith of the Corps successfully reach young people of the atomic age?

"Oh, yes," the commissioner affirmed. "This call to a simple gospel but a caring ministry has attracted young people, and, may I say, many young people with real gifts and graces."

He spoke with quiet enthusiasm of British youth councils sponsored by the Corps.

"It is quite a sight to see a thousand young people in their late teens, devote their weekend to come and reflect with us. It is another wave, like springtime, renewal..."

Street evangelism. Is it outdated?

To an extent, he believes. "In these days, a certain amount of the novelty offered by street evangelism has inevitably gone. We have changed the function of our bands in some countries. In the early 1900s, the very sight and sound of 60 uniformed musicians in the street was an event, before there were so many other attractions.

"These bands still get together and play their role. But often today after rehearsal the musicians will move out to speak individually to people. That is the need today, the personal witness confrontation, one to one..."

THE RELEVANCE of the 104-year-old Salvation Army in the 1970s was attested to not long ago by a rather unlikely source... former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

"While I was at 10 Downing Street sometime before the election, when he was still in office, we had a chat," related Commissioner Brown. "Mr. Wilson, and remember his socialistic views — commented 'There will always be a place for the Salvation Army. Bureaucracy can only administer human care via the head. People need the heart. The Salvation Army uses head and heart.'"

"THE PRIME minister," continued the Salvation leader, "added two more reasons. He said governments do not budget enough money for experimental, pioneering work, that this comes from private sources. And he added, in reference to the cradle-to-grave system they speak about in Britain, 'No matter how tightly the net is woven, there are always those who slip through and are in need...'"

Commissioner and Mrs. Brown — a world leader in her own right, who will be interviewed by Dianne Smith for Monday's paper — have two daughters: Heather Jean, a nurse in Toronto, and Beverly Ann, a student in London. Both are Salvationists.

Retirement-- Does It Kill?

Local Pastor Urges Men Continue Active

This article by Rev. Stanley Brown, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, is reprinted from the church's weekly newsletter:

I think one of the tragic things these days is the way a man will plan for his retirement, dream of the hobbies and pension funds, and then six months after he retires he's dead. His widow is left wondering in stunned disbelief, "Why?"

I wish I knew why this happens all too often. I know for one thing many men destroy their physical and spiritual health during those money-making years. They disobey the rules God makes so dear, and then suddenly the pressure is off and it all catches up. Now the toll is paid.

I wonder if there isn't another thing here too. Work is good; we all thrive on it. Too many men just quit all of a sudden, slide out of the saddle of discipline and routine purpose, and fall flat on their faces. One thing that impressed me most at the Jewish kibbutz where we stayed at Lake Galilee was that everyone had a job. When someone was too old or feeble for one job, he or she was given another job, something they could do. One old fellow sewed buttons on in the laundry, but nobody retired!

God blessed us with work, and I think every man who retires needs to find a place where he's needed and hold it down. Be an officer in your retirement club, take over the flower beds at the apartment, tutor school dropouts, work in the church office, call on the shut-ins — but for the sake of life and health, keep working!

Women to Discuss Literacy

The world-wide problem of lack of literacy will be the focus of the monthly forum of Church Women United of Long Beach, next Friday, at Palo Verde Avenue Christian Church, 2501 Palo Verde Ave.

Leaders of the local Literacy Council, Mrs. H. P. Hertzog, Mrs. Emma Zinser, and Mrs. Betty Blanchard will lead the discussion, which follows a 9:30 a.m. coffee hour.

Church Women United invites all women who are interested in this topic to attend, including Catholic and Jewish women.

Church pastors are also invited to the community discussion.

700 Couples to be Wed Together

Seven hundred couples from seven nations will be wed simultaneously this October in Seoul, Korea. The couples, including five from the United States, are members of the international Unification Church, whose headquarters are in Seoul. The marriage will be the largest in history, and will include couples from England, Germany, France, Austria, Japan, and Korea.

This will be the group's seventh mass wedding in Seoul. The last was held in 1968, when 430 couples were married. Thirteen couples were married simultaneously last year at the movement's U.S. Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

FROM THE PULPIT

"The summer is ending..." wrote the prophet Jeremiah. His burden was that the day of salvation was closing. Our summer is ending. Vacations are over. This is the last holiday weekend of the summer. Our burden seems to be that of getting one more ounce of pleasure out of the season, how different from the burden of Jeremiah. Church attendance and our relationship with God deserve more consideration than most of us give them. This little couplet carries a strong message.

Birth, Life, Death, The End, God!

There is nothing more important than this consideration. This day consider THAT day! Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Norwalk Methodists Will Offer Spanish Services

Spanish-speaking services will be launched Sunday, 10:30 a.m., at Christ United Methodist Church of Norwalk, 14706 S. Pioneer Blvd. After lengthy discussion of the need (one third of Norwalk's 90,000 population is of Latin origin), the church administrative council unanimously approved the idea and set up a task force.

Rev. Doroteo Venegas is minister, assisted by Methodist layman Manuel Perales. Spanish language hymnals have been made available for the pioneer effort.

The church leaders explain that it is not their intent merely to provide facilities and personnel for a separate Spanish-language congregation. Rather, it is their wish, they say, to bring into all other facets of the church activities those members of the Norwalk and surrounding areas who would be able to worship more easily in the Spanish language.

Give Yourself a Mental Shampoo

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

A famous physician once said, "Every day give your mind a good shampoo." Just how do you give yourself a "mental" shampoo? Each day practice emptying out the mind. One by one let go all the unhealthy thoughts — the mean ones, the jealous ones, the weak ones. Then let all your good thoughts take over. Try filling your mind with clean, wholesome thoughts.

Imagine what your house or office, or your body, would be like if you never cleaned it! Picture your mailbox or your refrigerator if you never emptied them! Well, your mind is no different. It too needs to be emptied and cleaned out regularly.

Every day we tend to accumulate all kinds of unwholesome thoughts and impressions. They pile up in our heads and unless we practice eliminating them, these mental poisons can contaminate our minds and make them sick.

WE CAN change ourselves by changing our thoughts. We are what we think, what we constantly entertain in our minds. It is amazing what thoughts can do to us. I am reminded of a story about a man who started his car one morning to go to work and discovered he had a flat tire. He looked in the trunk and found that his son had borrowed his jack. He had to get to work and the only person he knew who had a jack was his next-door neighbor, Harry.

jack," he said to himself and he started over to Harry's house. On the way he got to thinking. "Last week I borrowed Harry's hose and I haven't returned it yet. Maybe Harry's mad about that." Then he thought, "The week before I borrowed Harry's lawn mower and it's still sitting in my garage. Harry probably doesn't like that very much. By golly," he said to himself, "Harry is a pretty unreasonable person. I borrow his hose and I borrow his lawn mower and just because I don't get them right back to him, he's mad at me."

Well, by this time Sam was ringing Harry's front door bell. Harry opened it, smiling, and said, "Hi, Sam, what can I do for you?"

And Sam said, "Harry, I know what you think of me, and just for that I'm not going to borrow your jack!" And he stomped away, a victim of wrong thinking.

What can set Sam on the right track? Mental practice and mental exercise and, in Sam's case, especially, a realization that people around us are basically kind and glad to help out. Sam's wrong thinking about people didn't help him one bit when he needed that jack!

Some people carry in their minds a load of resentment or guilt or fear that is completely unnecessary. And of course lots of these people have trouble falling asleep or getting a good night's rest. What's the reason for this trouble? Usually the mind is overloaded with big troubles, little ones and bits and pieces of other people's problems as well. You lie in the dark and all the day's problems go parading around in your mind. And they get bigger and bigger (just the way Sam's bad thoughts of Harry got bigger and bigger) until they can only do you harm. When you awake, the first thing you think about is the last thing you thought about when you fell asleep. So the vicious cycle goes on and on unless you put a stop to it.

GOINGS ON

A Swap Meet and Family Fun Day for the benefit of the Jewish Community Center's senior adult and youth programs will be held Sunday, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Center Athletic Field, Willow and Grand, with hundreds of items of all kinds in a "flea market atmosphere."

An old tailor I once knew used to lecture me on how to treat a suit of clothes: "When you go to bed at night, take everything out of the pockets. Never hang up a suit with anything in the pockets because it pulls on the cloth and makes the suit look old before its time."

THEN HE'D say another important thing. "You not only should empty the pockets of your suit, but also the pockets of your mind. To have a restful night's sleep, empty out all unhealthy thoughts."

Is resentment, for example, gnawing away at you — something someone did or didn't do, some personal injustice that got your dander up? It's pretty disturbing when such thoughts continue festering in your mind. Decide to forgive the offender, or have a confrontation with him and together resolve it.

Give yourself a mental shampoo every day. Empty the pockets of your mind. Keep it clean and uncluttered. Make room for all the healthy and positive thoughts that can keep you well and happy.

CONSERVATIVE BUSINESSMAN

Frawley Seen as Strong Catholic Opinion-Maker

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Patrick J. Frawley Jr., a publicity-shy West Coast millionaire who has bankrolled many conservative causes, is moving into a powerful position as an opinion-maker in the Roman Catholic Church.

Frawley's Twin Circle Publishing Co., which he established only three years ago, now controls two of the five national Catholic newspapers in the United States.

It also publishes books, syndicates comic strips, and sponsors two widely disseminated broadcasts, a five-minute daily radio program over 650 stations, and a half-hour weekly television show aired in 40 cities.

All of Twin Circle's publications and broadcasts faithfully reflect Frawley's commitment to a traditionalist type of Catholicism and his concern about a possible Communist takeover of the United States.

The 46-year-old millionaire, who made his fortune in ballpoint pens (Papermate) and razor blades (Schick and Eversharp), has been prominent in anti-Communist activities since the Castro regime came to power in Cuba. He has contributed substantial sums to Dr. Fred Schwarz' Christian Anti-Communism Crusade and the American Jewish League Against Communism.

In 1965, at a meeting of the Cardinal Mindszenty Foundation, he met Rev. Daniel Lyons, a Jesuit priest who shares Frawley's fear that domestic traitors may sell America down the river into Communist domination. Lyons suggested they join forces in a publishing venture, and the Twin Circle Company came into being, as a subsidiary of Frawley's Schick Investment Corp.

Fr. Lyons is president of Twin Circle, and is featured on its broadcasts. Until recently, he also was editor of the weekly newspaper, Twin Circle, which has a national circulation of about 102,000.

Last month, he was eased out of the editorship in the wake of strong protests from several Catholic bishops (including Southland Archbishop Timothy Manning) who accused him of grossly distorting their role in settlement of the California grape strikes.

The new editor and publisher of Twin Circle is Robert Morris, former general counsel of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, who is now president of the University of Plano, Tex. Lyons will continue to write a weekly column and contribute feature articles for the tabloid paper.

Meanwhile, Twin Circle has bought another newspaper — the 57-year-old National Catholic Register, which has a circulation of about 112,000.

Under its previous editor, Fr. Daniel J. Flaherty, the Register espoused progressive Catholicism. The new editor, Dale Francis, says the paper under his direction will take a more conservative line, but will emphasize "honest" news coverage rather than opinion.

The other Catholic papers with national circulation are The Wanderer, a voice of the far right; Our Sunday Visitor, a moderate-to-conservative weekly which devotes more space to doctrinal and moral issues than to news; and the National Catholic Reporter, a left-liberal weekly which advocates sweeping reforms in the church.

Flag Rule Waived

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — The American flag has been flying under floodlight over the White House at night since Aug. 18 and President Nixon made it legal Friday.

Aides said it was Mrs. Nixon's idea to display the flag this way and Nixon approved it as a patriotic gesture.

The President signed a special proclamation at the Western White House to amend the Congressional rules and customs governing display of the flag so that it will fly "at the White House at all times during the day and night except in inclement weather."

Flags customarily are flown from sunrise to sunset. But Congress provided for display at night "under special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect." Any such change in rules has to be set forth in a proclamation by the nation's commander-in-chief.

Cluttered Story Weakens 'Crisis'

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

CBS-TV aired a possible series pilot show, "Crisis," Thursday night with Carl Betz as the chief of an emergency psychiatric clinic. The idea is identical with the "Dial Hot Line" show which will air on ABS-TV next season as "Matt Lincoln."

The "Crisis" idea wasn't bad, the gimmick being for Betz to solve the problem of the identity of a would-be killer and the intended victim from clues dropped by the sick man who keeps calling the clinic.

Unfortunately this story is cluttered with a number of characters who don't have much bearing on the main idea, some of the dialogue turns you off and despite all the efforts of the cast you miss the suspense that ought to be there.

As series material, I don't think it's any better or worse than most of the stuff you'll be seeing on TV. It's not on the schedule, though if "Matt Lincoln" turns out to be real hot and indicates another trend, it could be shoved in for some show that call at the Douglasses. Dodie has her tonsils out, Steve sprains his ankle and the triplets are hospitalized.

RADIO NOTE: Listeners sometimes take seriously what they hear announcers say on the air and announcers who are "personalities" sometimes get carried away.

For instance, this report about an announcer on a Richmond, Ky., radio station who will cost his station a new car before the Federal Communications Commission will renew its license:

The station was running a contest and in an off-hand fashion the announcer stated, "I have a set

TV NEWSMAN CAPTURED IN VIET 'DEAD'

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. aired, an unconfirmed report Friday that NBC correspondent Wellest Hagen, captured in Cambodia May 31, had been killed by the North Vietnamese.

The report was received from Johannes Duymisveld, a Dutch free-lance journalist who had been captured in Cambodia and released Aug. 24, NBC said.

The report, which NBC was trying to verify, said a Japanese national, Yoshiko Waku, and NBC sound man, also had been killed, as had a captured German cameraman, Dieter Dellendorf. Waku was captured with Hagen.

The Dutch writer told newsmen who interviewed him in Bangkok that he learned of the journalists' deaths from one of his captors who had been monitoring Hanoi radio, an NBC spokesman said.

A third NBC journalist, Roger Colne, a French NBC news cameraman of keys to a 1970 Impala for the winner."

The winner of the contest demanded the car. The station argued the announcer didn't intend that anyone would claim a car; just a set of keys.

The FCC thought otherwise.

Earl Slack, that genial owner of Silver's, tells of the dentist whose pipes below the floor of the chair needed complete replacement.

"This 'manipulator of the molars' was known to fondle a fiver with great gusto, so when the plumber gave him a price of $510 to complete the work, the dentist shrieked, 'Why -- that's all I charge for a complete set of dentures -- including extractions!!!'"

"I know, I know," drawled the "sanitary engineer" soothingly. -- "that's just what I used to get for them...BEFORE I TURNED TO PLUMBING!"

Firm Credits God for Phenomenal Growth

Quality Frame and Door, Cerritos, has moved into a new facility twice the size of its former plant, backorders are the largest in its history, and sales have skyrocketed to $2 million annually, all at a time that the construction industry is supposed to be in a slump.

President Warren R. Olson credits a good product — and high religious ethics for his firm's success.

Every other Wednesday at least half of its 70 employees attend a Bible study breakfast and every management meeting starts with a prayer.

A source close to Quality Frame and Door claims the firm recently refused a sizeable order when the buyer wanted the contract padded for a relatively small kickback to be split equally between the two parties.

Not only did Quality refuse the kickback, they refused to sell anything to the party.

OLSON credits God for "guiding us through our phenomenal growth." The president said when a firm's operation is based on Christian ethics, clients come to realize they can depend on a fair deal.

Quality is located at the Artesia Freeway and Norwalk Avenue in a Dunn Industrial Park.

It moved into a 43,000-square-foot facility after occupying its El Segundo plant of 20,000-square-foot for seven years.

Quality selected the Cerritos site because of Dunn's ability to meet size and building specifications on short notice.

QUALITY turns out wood doors and moulding, Steelcraft hollow metal frames and doors, and cabinetry. It handles both generalized and custom-made mill work. Steelcraft products was added to its line in March.

The firm began operations in 1938 with wood window frames and double hung windows.

Over the years, it gradually expanded its line and started including products for commercial business in the early 1960's. In 1967, Quality made a major change converting most of its efforts to commercial, industrial, and hi-rise clients.

The firm has over 30 carpenters in the field to install its product manufactured and assembled at its new Cerritos plant.

OLSON listed off present orders that resembled a Commercial "Who's Who Social Directory."

ONE OF SELECT HOLLANDIA HOMES... Ready For Immediate Occupancy

Move-In Plan at Hollandia Homes, Cerritos, Heralded

A "pre-back-to-school" move-in plan which will allow families to relocate before the official opening of the fall semester has been implemented at the new Hollandia Homes project in Cerritos, according to Chuck Sandberg of the Harville Development Co., builders.

Under the new program, immediate closing procedures regarding escrow and loan action have been enacted, Sandberg said. In addition, a lucrative "instant trade" provision has been put into effect at the new community.

"This new 'move now' package has created a real success story for Hollandia," Sandberg reported. "The appealing price of the homes, their immediate availability prior to school's start and the new closing procedures are the key sales factors at Hollandia Homes," he explained.

THE 51-HOME community, which ranges in price from $26,950 to $33,000, is located on South Street between Bloomfield and Carmanita. Downtown Los Angeles is less than 30 minutes away and the Orange County civic center can be reached within 20 minutes.

"The two-county midway location makes a home in Cerritos ideal for a family who wants to participate in the metropolitan business and social activities of Los Angeles while reaping the benefits of a location conveniently accessible to the Orange County beaches and recreational attractions," Sandberg observed.

HOLLANDIA features include lifetime copper plumbing; built-in range, oven and dishwashers; underground utilities; fenced rear yards; fireplaces; nylon carpeting and wood shingle and shake roofs.

Three new floor plans featuring eight distinctive elevations are being offered by the developers in both one and two-story homes.

Decorator-furnished models are open at Hollandia and FHA, VA and conventional terms are available.

To reach the select community from Long Beach, take the 605 Freeway to South Street and drive east on South Street about two miles. From Los Angeles or Orange County, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Carmanita. Drive south on Carmanita to South Street and west on South Street to the models.

Economic Downturn Boon to This Bill Collecting Business

NEW YORK — Bill collecting is one business that has profited from the economic downturn, credit experts say.

The American Collectors Association — ACA — reports that the number of delinquent accounts referred by businessmen to its 2,600 member agencies last month was 20 per cent higher than a year earlier and the third highest for any month in history.

The rising cost of living, tight money, layoffs and uncertainty about job security are cited by credit authorities as reasons some consumers are either slower in paying their bills or failing to pay them altogether.

"People are being laid off and seasonal workers are finding it harder to get jobs. Where there's a lot of uncertainty about what's going to happen, the consumer holds onto money as long as he can," says an ACA spokesman.

"People have built up a tolerance to nonpayment," adds Morton Goldberg, a New York attorney specializing in bill collections.

"Since the beginning of the year, there's been more and more of this. People have the money but won't part with it."

W. G. Hocker, general credit manager for J. C. Penney Co., one of the nation's largest retailers, says, "We see a continuation of the slowdown in bill payment that started in the last half of 1969."

G. Robert Myers, general credit manager for Allied Stores, also a nationwide chain, reports "There are spotty areas where problems are occurring" although he sees "no increase in delinquency on an over-all basis."

And New York's Chase Manhattan Bank reports that users of its credit card, the Uni-Card, have become increasingly slower this year in paying their bills due to the slowdown in the economy and the postal strike last March.

THE REAL PROBLEM AREAS, the officials say, are where unemployment is high.

In Seattle, where the Boeing Co. has laid off thousands of employees since the first of the year, the credit manager of a large department store says

Interest Rates Reduced to 6.9 Per Cent at Sol Vista

Interest rates on conventional home loans have been reduced to as low as 6.9 per cent at Sol Vista Homes in Fountain Valley, according to Al Solomon, president.

The move is effective immediately and will stay in effect for an indefinite period of time.

"We know that interest rates have been easing and would soon reach this level, so our lender adjusted his interest schedule so that buyers who are waiting for lower interest rates can still purchase a home and be completely settled before school starts," Solomon added.

Sol Vista also offers special VA financing that enables veterans to move into a new home for $1 down.

The new Sol Vista development in Fountain Valley is composed of three, four, five and seven-bedroom homes with 15 different exterior elevations. Homes include both one and two levels and start in price from $32,950.

SPECIAL features of the stylish new models are step-down living room and family room, cathedral ceilings, formal dining rooms, work-saver kitchens with all built-ins, and large master suites with private baths.

Carpeting, pass-through windows from kitchen to patio and front sprinklers and lawn are also included in the Sol Vista package.

Five decorator-furnished models are open for viewing daily from 10 a.m. until dusk and sales representatives are on hand to answer questions about the new development.

Immediate occupancy is available at Sol Vista through a special escrow service to assist new homeowners in getting settled as quietly as possible.

OTHER features of Sol Vista-Fountain Valley homes include three-car garages, concrete driveways, huge walk-in closets, custom cabinets and shake, shingle or tile roofs.

Sol Vista Homes are located just one-quarter mile north of the San Diego Freeway at 16300 Magnolia. The development is less than five minutes from regional shopping centers and major recreational areas. Beaches are 10 minutes away, and professional and personal service shops are located immediately adjacent to the residential community.

A new elementary school within the development is scheduled to open in September and a park for residents of the area has been planned.

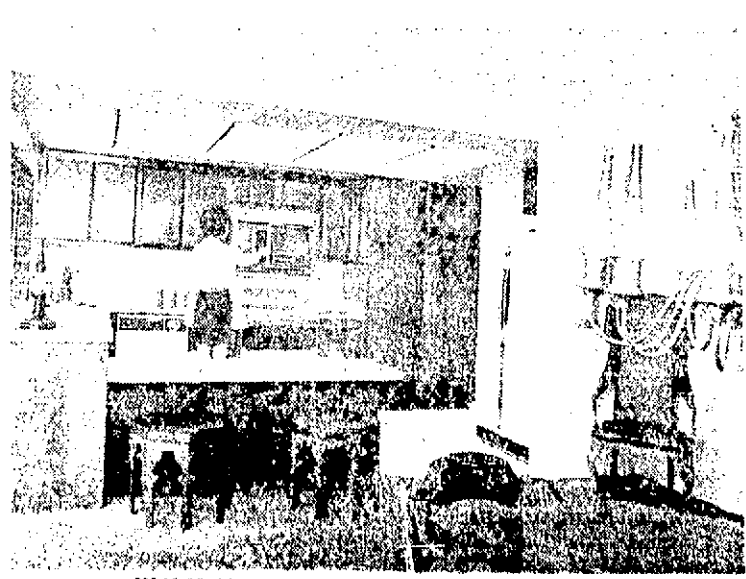

More than 3,000 Sol Vista Homes have been constructed in Orange County since 1951.

Southland Economic Experts Still Disagree on Outlook

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

My vacation didn't change a thing. The economic experts still are at odds, I find upon my return. But perhaps it always has been that way — which gives the pessimists and the optimists needed vocal fuel.

Sample No. 1:

"All is not well in our economy," Dr. Robert R. Dockson, chairman of the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce Research Committee, has disclosed in a business report on the first six months of 1970.

Dockson, who presented a similar report several months earlier, stressed "I am sorry to say I believe the situation has worsened considerably since then."

Headlining his bleak picture of the Southern California economy were statistics that revealed June unemployment in Los Angeles County reached the highest peak ever.

"Unemployment is up 40 per cent over last year," the chairman announced. "We currently have 211,000 persons unemployed, which is approximately 6.1 percent of the total labor force."

He added that 277,300 were unemployed during June in the entire five-county area (Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura).

Dockson attributed the sharp employment decline to the recessive situation in the manufacturing and aerospace industries.

Since January manufacturing jobs have dropped from 1,072,400 to 1,028,000. Aerospace jobs dipped to 358,000 in May from a high of 427,000 in January, 1969.

BUT THE EMPLOYMENT PICTURE isn't all bad in the five-county area. Since June of last year government jobs have risen 4.6 per cent and jobs in the construction industry have noticed a slight 1.5 per cent increase.

"Although the construction industry is running slightly ahead of last year, there is a very critical problem developing in the housing industry," Dockson warned.

"Our know-how for home construction is declining at a very rapid rate and unless something is done to alleviate the situation I believe we are all apt to be working on this problem the same as we are working on the problem of education."

Dockson explained that housing construction in Los Angeles County started out 11 per cent ahead of last year but declined in February, March and April. Then the number of housing permits issued in May jumped a mammoth 150 per cent over previous years because contractors were trying to beat the Los Angeles City sewer connection tax, which became effective May 11.

"Because of this abnormal rise, the new dwelling units authorized in Los Angeles County are 6.2 per cent over last year for the first six months," he said.

On the other hand, the housing business isn't exactly booming in neighboring counties. New home construction is down 40 per cent in Orange, 1.5 in Riverside, 4 per cent in San Francisco and 136 per cent in Ventura.

"I believe 1970 will be the slowest year for home building this area has experienced since 1943 when we had wartime restrictions on construction," Dockson stated.

THE CURRENT RECESSION is even affecting the Southern California jet age. Los Angeles International Airport, for example, has served 275,000 fewer passengers during the first six months of the new year than it did in 1969.

A bit of encouragement came when he reported that Southern California inflation is not quite as bad as the national average.

"The Consumer Price Index for the country as a whole went up 6.1 per cent from June, 1969 to June, 1970, compared with a 5.4 increase in our area. During the first six months of this year, prices in our area have increased a little over 2 per cent while they have gone up 2.6 per cent for the nation as a whole," Dockson said.

Now the Silver Lining

That's the Chamber expert's analysis. Now read the silver lining around this from a survey of one of the leading mortgage firms in the Southland:

"Los Angeles' housing industry has broken out of its first-quarter doldrums. There's enough wind in the sails now to propel this market to its best year for new construction since at least 1965.

"The pace of house and apartment activity nearly doubled during the second quarter, from a 28,000-permit annual rate to a 53,000-permit annual rate. The third and fourth quarters should show additional gains, with apartments continuing to lead the way.

"Effective demand appears as strong as last year, despite the decline in employment to the lowest growth rate since 1960."

These are some of the findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's "U.S. Housing Markets," a semi-annual survey. It compares trends in Los Angeles County with those in 22 other major markets nationwide.

Total permits in the first half numbered 21,323, a 1 per cent increase over last year's rain-plagued figure and the highest since 1965. In sheer volume of permits, Los Angeles was the nation's second largest housing market, after Miami-Fort Lauderdale (which had 22,321).

HOUSES ACCOUNTED FOR only 5,470 of first-half permits, a 31 per cent drop from last year's disappointing total and the lowest since 1967. Apartment permits, on the other hand, increased 20 per cent, to 15,853, the highest since 1965.

"The new house sales picture is a mixed bag," reports Advance area manager John Bailey. "Some builders have reported a strong pickup while others say business is slow. Many prospective buyers cannot qualify."

A few larger builders are now offering low-interest, short-term financing to get families into houses. These three-year, under-7 per cent sales contracts may be converted to regular mortgages at the end of the period or at any earlier time if interest rates become favorable.

Upswing in Early '71?

California's sluggish economy, recovering from the sharpest restraints in more than a decade, should show a decided upswing by early 1971, Wells Fargo Bank predicts.

Komaroff to Address

Revan D. Komaroff, Long Beach Chamber of Commerce board director, will speak to the Chamber's membership meeting Wednesday, 7:15 a.m., at Victor Hugo Restaurant.

Program chairman Dr. C. Robert Hastings said Komaroff, importer and world traveler, will speak on "The Great Chinese Passion," preparation of their food.

Cutbacks in defense related industries, increased unemployment, a weakness in manufacturing activity, consumer uncertainty and slow increases in per capita income were factors in the slowdown.

Harold L. Buma, vice president and economist, said it is significant that the state's economy continued to expand overall despite these negative factors. He said that non-manufacturing employment is running ahead of last year and there were also job gains in services, trade, construction and finance employment although not as strong as in past years.

Easing of the monetary policy and an increase in mortgage funds has improved the housing outlook. Housing starts in California bottomed out early in the year and have since risen.

The bank expects some weakness may still be expected in non-residential and heavy construction as the volume of new contract awards continues to taper off.

that "payments are much slower now and we have many more delinquent accounts. This kind of a situation is bound to hurt both sales and payments."

A spokesman for Swedish Hospital, one of Seattle's largest, says, "We're just beginning to really feel the effects of the Boeing cutbacks now."

"In the space of 20 minutes, three calls just came in from people who had lost their jobs and wanted to tell us they would be unable to pay their accounts as had been arranged," he said.

In Boston, where a cutback by the government in its aerospace program has contributed to a slackening in the local economy, the State Street Bank and Trust Co. reports a "slight lag in bill payments." However, it adds "There is a tendency for payments to lag a little in summer months."

Harold Simmons, owner of Harold's Radio Corp., a Boston discount house, says that "about two or three months ago bill payments slowed up and so did business."

In Los Angeles, another city affected by layoffs in the aerospace industry, Ray O'Brien, a Bank of America vice president in charge of loan administration, says "We have noticed a moderate increase in the number of delinquents — people who haven't made payments on a loan in about 30 days. We've noticed this increase over the last 12 months."

IN SANTA MONICA, a spokesman for a hospital says, "A number of hospitals in the area have complained about a lag in payments by patients." However, he says the delays at his own institution have been minor.

"We have also noticed," he adds, "a reduction in the number of people who elect to come into the hospital for treatment."

The ACA says that the businesses that have to wait the longest for their money are those that provide services.

The reason, a spokesman says, is that the consumer knows a service can't be repossessed. "It's difficult for a guy who's fixed a refrigerator to unfix it," he says.

The slowdown in bill payments is by no means universal. Several large retailers whose operations are either national or regional say payments are coming in at about the same rate as a year ago. And some credit cards have been unaffected by the lag in payments.

For example, Bank of America reports that in California, its home state, dollar payments on its widely used BankAmericard are running 27 per cent ahead of last year while the number of payments is up 8 per cent.

A spokesman for Americana Express, a popular credit card in the travel and entertainment field, says the company has experienced a "microscopic, not even 1 per cent" slowdown in bill payments.

Taco Bell Acquires Four Units

TORRANCE — Taco Bell (OTC) has announced an agreement to acquire four Oklahoma City-based Taco Bell restaurants from El Ocho Corporation. This acquisition reflects Taco Bell's increase in emphasis from the franchised units to the company-owned and operated restaurants.

This acquisition will increase the company's annual gross revenues from company-owned restaurants by approximately $500,000 and increase the total number of restaurants operated to 29.

Business Week index

Only Auto Production Shows Gain

The Index came down 0.2 per cent in the current week. A gain in auto production was offset by losses in nearly all the remaining components.

Steel output slumped 3.7 per cent.

Auto production went up 11.3 per cent as assembly plants stepped up production of 1971 models.

Crude oil refinery runs lost 2.3 per cent. Output was off due to hurricane damage to oil wells. Electric power output gained 0.2 per cent.

The surface transportation components registered losses. Miscellaneous carloadings dropped 2.5 per cent, all other carloadings lost 2.2 per cent, intercity truck tonnage went down 2.8 per cent — a 14.4 per cent drop below a year ago.

Paperboard production lost 2.8 per cent.

A STRIKE IN THE U.S. AUTOMOBILE industry after present labor contracts expire Sept. 14 would have a serious impact on a wide list of suppliers, Industry Week said.

The degree of hurt would depend on which automaker was shut down and on the suppliers' opportunities to divert their outputs elsewhere, the business magazine pointed out. Suppliers who also serve the replacement market would feel an autoworkers' strike less sharply than those heavily dependent on new car production.

The big auto companies have not cut any orders, and most suppliers say their operations are relatively normal, Industry Week reported.

Here's the impact an auto strike would have on suppliers:

Tire output would be cut 20 per cent or more by a prolonged strike, although production of replacement passenger car tires to meet record demand could take up some slack.

Automotive glass production would have to close down from the present high level because there is no other outlet for this form of glass.

Wheel and brake suppliers would lay off employees

if there is a serious work stoppage in the auto plants. Rubber products such as V-belts could be directed into non-automotive uses, but facilities for making molded auto flooring and other auto specialty items would have to close.

Electric motor and control makers do only a small part of their business with the auto industry, but they say they would be hurt by the autoworkers' strike.

Plastics, used increasingly in automobiles, would be in lessened demand but some could be directed into the replacement market and other uses.

Fastener makers would quickly feel an auto strike; some of them are heavily dependent on the auto industry for business.

Auto finish producers could stand a short strike, because they have other customers, but a long strike would be damaging.

Fabrics find only a small portion of their outlets in the auto industry, so textile mills would not be severely hurt.

Steel orders for some of the automobile industry's needs have been placed for September delivery, and the automakers are now sitting tight.

IN FACT, THE ATMOSPHERE in steel today is one of watching and waiting for Detroit developments. Nevertheless, steel production by U.S. mills is holding up well. Industry Week estimates that raw steel output in the U.S. in the week ended Aug. 29 was 2,444,000 net tons compared with 2,434,000 tons the previous week. August's raw steel production in the U.S. is estimated at 10,826,000 net tons compared with 10,782,000 tons in July.

Because of strengthening demand for steel scrap, a raw material for steelmaking, prices paid for late August offerings by the auto companies rose about $5 per gross ton on factory bundles even though supplies were up. Reflecting the uptrend, Industry Week's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap rose to $42.66 per gross ton from the preceding week's $41.

Industrial Complex Going Up

A $6 million dollar industrial complex is slated for a 25-acre site adjacent to the Fullerton Airport in Orange County, according to a joint-announcement by Life & Casualty Insurance Company of Tennessee and Glass Containers Corporation co-owners of the property.

Known as the Fullerton Air Industrial Park, the project will be located between Moore and Artesia Avenues and will front on Gilbert Street.

Dwyer-Curlett & Company, pioneer Southland mortgage banking firm, is the developer and Keller & Grant, Inc. of Azusa is general contractor. Grubb & Ellis Company of Los Angeles and Newport Beach has been named leasing agent.

THE groundbreaking for the initial two buildings took place August 19.

Johnson in Watson Center

The stainless steel division of A. Johnson & Co., Inc., subsidiary of Sweden's Axel Johnson Group, has moved its West Coast headquarters from San Francisco to Watson Industrial Center, Western Regional Manager Pierre Pelletier announced.

A. Johnson & Co., Inc., with national executive offices in New York, is the fifty-year-old, exclusive U.S. mill representative for Avesta Jernverks Aktiebolag, leading Swedish producer of stainless steel.

Pelletier explained the move to Southern California resulted "because the volume of our import-export business has shifted to the Los Angeles and Long Beach ports where we needed to provide customer services and warehousing facilities while continuing, of course, to maintain our San Francisco operation."

PELLETIER, who has been with the steel distributor nine years, opened the company's first West Coast office in San Francisco five years ago. His new western regional office is located at 22805 South Avalon Blvd., the former Carson City Hall building.

The firm also handles domestic U.S. steel as well as other non-Swedish imported steel products.

Walker & Lee Reports Higher 1st Half Sales

Home sales by Walker & Lee, Inc., during the first six months of 1970 are up 12 per cent over last year, reports Frank Hart, president of the Anaheim-based realty firm.

"According to all present indications," said Hart, "we should beat our 1969 total of 4,987 homes, our company record, by more than 1,000 homes or a 20 per cent increase. This will enable us to achieve our goal of 6,000 home sales in 1970.

"Last year, we had a very good first half, but then tightening money conditions and the public's lack of confidence in the economy drastically slowed the residential real estate market.

"This year, we see no signs of such a slow down. The economy appears to have stabilized and people are again willing to make that important and necessary decision to buy a new home."

HART reported total six-month sales of the real estate firm were $92.6 million, including $88.9 million in homes, $1.8 million in acreage, and $1.9 million in investment property.

He noted that the total would be substantially increased if the as-yet-unstarted sales of the firm's insurance and escrow subsidiaries were included.

The $98.9 million residential sales total represents 3,120 homes, an increase of $14.2 million and 333 homes over last year's 2,787 homes for $74.7 million. All figures are net sales, Hart stressed.

HART noted that the biggest increase was in new home sales, where the six-month figure rose by 266 homes, from 889 to 1,155. Total dollar volume was $37.3 million, an increase of $11.3 million.

Rosales rose by 67 homes to 1,965 for the first half. Total dollar volume was $61.7 million, an increase of $2.9 million.

"One of the most significant trend coming out of these figures is that home prices are continuing to rise dramatically," said Hart. "This year, the average new home we have more than $3,000 above last year's average price of $29,225. In comparison, the average resale home is now priced at $26,317, an increase of only $640 over last year."

To accommodate this sprawling growth, the first sales complex was donated to the city, and the present sales office on St. Mark Street was constructed two miles away from the original sales site.

S & S President Emil Tessin stated: "An important element at College Park has been the concentration on family needs for well-established schools, convenient shopping and varied recreational facilities.

"S & S has supported this community by building facilities such as a youth recreation center and a library, and a shopping center located on Lampson Blvd.

"Two parks have been constructed, including Shapell Park, which was donated to the city of Garden Grove along with $5,000 to help furnish park equipment."

Rancho California's First Mobile Home Park Ready

Construction is nearing completion on the first mobile home park at Rancho California, the 96,000-acre multi-purpose Kaiser Aetna development on inland Highway 395 midway between Los Angeles and San Diego.

The project is a new facet of Rancho California's accelerating program to meet growing housing needs in the area, Justus C. Gillfillan, president, said.

It is being developed in part for incoming residents who will be employed at the Industrial Park, where three companies are in operation, five are under construction, and three others are ready to start.

LOCATED in the gently rolling hills on the eastern side of the vast ranch, the 230-acre mobile home park will have 186 sites in the first increment ready for occupancy this month.

Long-range plans call for more than 1,000 mobile home sites.

Gillfillan said in keeping with the country environment of the ranch the mobile home park sites are being arranged in low density landscaped groupings located on the natural contours of the land.

First phase of the project, to be completed is 2,300 square foot recreation building, which includes lounge and assembly hall, kitchen, laundry, manager's office, and storage rooms.

WORK IS underway on a adjacent 20x40 foot swimming pool. Other future facilities planned for mobile home park residents include a golf course, clubhouse and saunas.

Rancho California offers a variety of other residential areas, and also has acreage for agricultural crops including citrus, avocados and vine grapes, and various recreational projects.

acre lake with excellent fishing and boating, a recreation vehicle resort known as Butterfield Country for campers and trailers, three arenas for horse shows and rodeos, and 50 miles of bridle trails.

Last Showcase Homes Offered at Good Savings

The last remaining homes in the Showcase series in Westminster are being offered at a savings during a big closeout sale, highlighted by a 5 per cent down payment and no other closing or impounds cost, according to Dick Kurth, of Kurth & Associates, sales agents for the unit.

In addition to the minimal down payment requirement, this William Krueger-built complex offers a spectacular "no penalty" plan which guarantees the purchaser an opportunity to refinance their present loan at Showcase at any time for one and a half years after the initial purchase and pay no penalty.

What makes this offer so outstanding is that no matter whether the interest rates go down, stay the same, or even go up, the home buyer is completely safe and cannot suffer a financial loss.

"We like to offer our residents an much security as possible and we believe that this 'no penalty' plan affords them the maximum protection possible," Kurth said.

THE HOMES are priced from $33,495 and feature a host of "turn key" incentives available at no cost to the buyer. Some of these include drapes, front yard landscaping, concrete front driveways, fenced backyard and gate and many other time and money-saving items.

The homes have either three, four or five bedrooms with two or three baths. There are 10 floor plans to choose from and 33 distinctive exteriors.

"With the number of exteriors and floor plans available, we feel that every family can almost design their own home with the outstanding choices open to them," Kurth said.

Besides the basic options open to the buyer, these unique Showcase homes have two outstanding characteristics which separate them from the dozens of other communities.

An opportunity to literally design their own homes is an exclusive plan developed by Showcase and titled the Custom Completion Plan. This allows the home to be built around the interests and desires of the buyer.

DECISIONS such as colors, materials and where and what size certain rooms shall be are all in the power of the individual purchaser.

Bound only a limit of 10 distinctive floor plans, which act more as a guide than as a restriction, the buyer has a unique opportunity to design a home around the needs of his family.

The second outstanding characteristic is the "Growing Room" which is a spacious area constructed with the idea of providing the family with a large space appropriate for their any need. This room is available in all of the two story models.

This room can be used as a luxurious two or three bedroom suite, library, art studio, entertainment room, nursery and play room.

The area is fully framed and rough plumbing for the bathroom is installed. If the family decides on a definite use then the builder will finish it to their exact desires and specifications at a nominal additional cost.

"TODAY, a builder has to offer something exceptional to the buying public to get them to consider a specific home or series of homes. With the Custom Completion Plan and 'Growing Room' we think we have two items that insure buyer interest and even more important ultimate buyer satisfaction," Kurth pointed out.

To see these exciting Showcase Homes, take the Garden Grove Freeway to Magnolia and drive south to McFadden in Westminster. The completely furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m.

Katella Realty Sales Reached High in July

In August, 1956, in a two-story frame house adjacent to a vacant Anaheim lot at Euclid and Katella, Melvin R. Schantz opened the first Katella Realty Inc. office. This spot soon gave way to modern office suites and today the company escrow occupies one of them.

This was the beginning of a planned expansion program that is still in effect.

At the close of 1969, Katella Realty had seven locations in Orange County from which a staff of 65 salesmen served Anaheim, Garden Grove, Westminster, Fountain Valley and Huntington Beach.

On May 1 of this year, Mel Schantz & Glenn Burdett, longtime associates in real estate in the county, merged their companies.

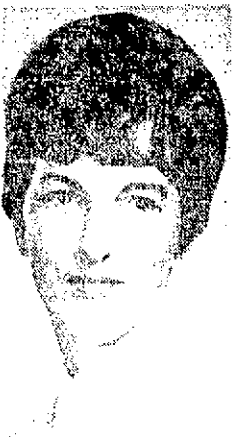

The three offices of Approved Homes Realty, now under the Katella banner, increased the total locations to 10 and extended the company coverage to Fullerton, Brea, Diamond Bar and Yorba Linda.

ON JULY 1, a new location was established at Brookhurst and Adams in Huntington Beach to service the Beach area and Costa Mesa. Now the total sales force is more than 100.

As a result of 14 years' experience in listing and selling homes in Orange County, gross resales for this organization in July reached a volume of $3,247,860, augmented by $452,140 from their associated Investment Division.

Schantz is president of Katella Realty Inc., a past president of Garden Grove Kiwanis and former director of the Anaheim Board of Realtors.

ALYEA'S HOMER ENOUGH

Twins Dim Angels' Hopes, 4-0

By DON MERRY Staff Writer

Bill Rigney was in excellent form Friday night. So, for that matter, were Bert Blyleven, Ron Perranoski and Brant Alyea.

The Minnesota Twins, recently residents of heart-break hotel, returned to happiness street with a 4-0 victory over the Angels.

It was a conquest of incalculable proportions for the Twins and a stinging, bitter defeat for the Angels — a team struggling to create a miracle.

"Yeah," Rig admitted, "it might be our biggest of the year. I'll tell you one thing — it ranks right up there."

Two games remain in the showdown series and the Angels must win both just to narrow the deficit to two games.

"They have to catch us and it's not much help when you don't win the first one," Rigney said with a delighted smile. "The club that wins the first is the only one with a chance to win 'em all."

Minnesota went four games up because Alyea hit a three-run homer off Rudy May in the first inning and because Blyleven, 19, and Perranoski, 33, provided an eloquent blend of zestful youth and crafty experience to shutout the Angels on five hits.

"I had the feeling in Milwaukee yesterday that our guys were just itching to get out to the coast and get to work," Rigney said.

The Twins lost 8-3 Thursday to the Brewers.

"We played it like a spring exhibition," he belatedly, "and I knew they had their minds on the Angels. So we didn't need a meeting tonight although I told Blyleven that it might be nice if he threw a shutout."

Blyleven, pitching in the shadow of his prep triumphs at Santiago High in Garden Grove and in front of many familiar faces, did as his manager suggested for 5.1 innings when the Angels loaded the bases with one out.

Rigney did not hesitate in summoning Perranoski, the relief pitcher who notched his 25th save on July 27 and who still had 25 as of Friday evening. Perranoski, no stranger to tension, struck out pinch-hitter Billy Cowan and got another pinch-hitter, Tom Reynolds to hit into an in-ning-ending force play, extracting nothing but moans from a turnout of 38,199.

Perranoski faced 12 men and retired 11 of them, yielding only a two-out triple to Jim Fregosi in the eighth.

Even in the flush of success, however, the Twins appear restless and angry. Blyleven was upset at being removed from the game and so was Alyea, who was taken out for defensive purposes in the sixth.

Blyleven and Rigney held a private meeting after the game to air their differences.

All Alyea would say is,

Rose Bowl Time for Rams, Oilers

By AL LARSON Staff Writer

The Rams hope to coax 40,000 into viewing night football tonight at the Rose Bowl when they meet a new opponent, the Houston Oilers, guided by an old opponent, quarterback Charley Johnson.

The Rams and Oilers have never met before, but Johnson was the St. Louis Cardinal signal-caller until an off-season trade sent him to Houston.

Coach George Allen's hirelings are one of only two unbeaten, untied teams left in the exhibition season ranks. The Oilers (1-3) won their first game last week, surprising Dallas, 37-21, but the road grows tougher against the Rams, 4-0. As a result, oddsmakers rate the Rams as 11-point choices to make it five wins in a row.

Kickoff is scheduled for 8:05 in the tradition-rich Pasadena Bowl and fans who are not used to the luxury of sitting between the goals lines at the Coliseum will be in for a surprise. Twenty-yard line seats (really) are available.

The Oilers, who deflated the Cowboys for the first time in three tries in the Texas rivalry, also will be playing outdoors for the first time after four successive games under the dome. They may have trouble adjusting to the Rose Bowl's candlepower lighting system. Fans did a few years ago when the USC-Wisconsin New Year's Day battle dragged on into the evening. Allen will start right linebacker Maxie Baughan for the first time in 1970 and the Ram lineup figures to field one additional surprise for the Oilers. But mum's the word.

Johnson, who came to the Oilers in exchange for ex-USC QB Pete Beathard, will direct a number of his passes in the direction of Jerry Levias, one of the exciting young players in the NFL.

At 5-10, 176, Levias looks more like a distance runner than a football player — until he steps into a uniform. Against the Cowboys, the former SMU star caught touchdown passes measuring 70 and 25 yards, and ran for another on an 11-yard reverse. The Rams have to watch those reverses since Dickie Post scored on an 11-yard Statue of Liberty last week. During the pre-season, Levias is averaging more than 20 yards per catch on 12 receptions.

While Johnson and Levias supply the air power, the Houston ground game has not been left unattended. The Oilers have one of the unsung fullbacks in the NFL in Hoyle Granger, a five-year veteran from Mississippi St., who has rushed for 3,170 yards in just four seasons. Granger's 1,194 yards in 1967 represents the fourth best in pro football history for a single season.

He is complimented by Woody Campbell, former Northwestern star and Vietnam vet. Campbell is the club's leading rusher with 109 yards on 31 carries in the pre-season.

The Oiler defense is spearheaded by left linebacker George Webster, who was named to the AFL's all-time team although playing only three seasons since college days at Michigan State.

Allen will hold out Larry Smith another week because of a hamstring pull. Tommy Mason will start again with Les Josephson, the workhorse in all four of his victories for 73 yards.

The Oilers will not depart until Sunday evening. Club owner-president Bud Adams will spend Sunday at Ontario Speedway cheering for Roger McCluskey. Adams happens to own the car Zik McCluskey will be piloting in the 300 race. Thus, the team will depart from Ontario Airport in hopes of beating the traffic jam heading back to L.A.

There's no reason to believe the Rams won't make it an interesting show despite their heavy favoritism. They've failed in all four of their victories this summer.

With guard Tom Mack sidelined indefinitely because of eye surgery, John Wilbur will get his first start since joining the club two weeks ago in the trade with St. Louis. Wilbur started the 1968-69 season with the Cowboys.

Ram line coach Ray Prochaska says the Oilers' front four is a lot stronger than it looks. "They're not a bunch of Lollypoppers. Also, their secondary is manned by hard nose no one to the outside. Their defense had the Cowboys confused all night."

HOUSTON — It's hardly a secret the Dodgers will listen to any club wishing to deal away a power hitter when the swap season is next month.

But Walter Alston, the manager, says let's get some pitching, too.

"Pitching is the name of the game," Alston said, repeating the worn-out phrase, "and I guess maybe we've been spoiled a little by having guys like Koufax and Drysdale."

"But I'd like to see us improve our pitching. I knew Al (vice president Al Campanis) has mentioned a power hitter. That's fine and I sure don't want to get in any arguments about it, but I'd like to get some pitching, too."

Alston's remarks followed Friday night's 7-3 loss to struggling Houston, a game in which young Sandy Vance improved his stature considerably in the manager's thinking.

"All he has to do is improve his control just a little bit more," Alston said of Vance. "I'm sure he will, too. He's an intelligent boy and he'll listen."

Vance was the victim of three Dodger errors — one of his own — that opened the way for Houston's first three runs and reliever Jim Brewer wild pitched home two others.

Vance, 5-6 with some impressive pitching his last several starts, figures high in the club's thinking. The manager hints he'd like to beef up the pitching by way of a deal rather than the hitting.

DODGER OF DAY

TOM HALLER slugged two-run homer in Dodgers' 7-3 setback at Houston.

"I think there's probably more potential in hitting coming along from the minors than pitching," Alston said. "And, don't forget, we were leading the league in hitting just a couple of weeks ago so we know we can hit the ball."

The Dodgers' hitting is fine, especially on the road, but the absence of the long ball has been a killing void much of the year. Tom Haller hit a two-run homer Friday night, only the 80th home run by the Dodgers. The opposition has rifled Dodger pitchers for 139 homers and you begin to see why Alston wants to pep up the pitching.

"Pitching is such a big part of the game," he said. "We've learned this over the years all too well."

What the manager meant, the club has won a title or two with pitching while scratching for its runs just like now.

The Dodgers got a run off Don Wilson in the second inning when Bill Grabarkewitz singled home Haller from second. Haller then hit his homer in the fourth with Wes Parker aboard, Haller's ninth of the year.

The Astros got an unearned run in the second when Vance misfired to first and two more in the fifth when rightfielder Bill Russell failed to handle Bob Watson's line drive.

That squared the game at 3-all but Houston busted it open in the eighth with four runs, two of them because of wild pitches by Brewer.

Vance pitched into the eighth, scattering eight hits. He allowed five runs, only two of them earned.

The loss streak is now at three but the Dodgers took to the astro-Turf of the dome just like they have every other astro-Turf course. They clubbed 10 hits, two each by Haller, Grabarkewitz and suddenly-awakening Willie Crawford.

"We should have had a couple more runs, too," Alston said, recalling a drive by Vance in the second inning.

It was after Grabarkewitz' single scored Haller with the first run in the second. Vance was the hitter with Crawford at third and Grabarkewitz at second, the result of an error.

Vance drove a line drive to left field and Jim Wynn, playing not too far behind shortstop Denis Menke, had to race almost to the warning track to grab it.

CAN'T REPORT Suspend McLain; to Meet Kuhn

NEW YORK (UPI) — Denny McLain, star pitcher for the Detroit Tigers who missed nearly half the season because of a suspension, was summoned Friday by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn to come to New York to discuss his probationary status.

McLain was also notified by Kuhn that he was not to report to the Tigers Friday night, the end of his one-week suspension imposed by Detroit, the aftermath of a clubhouse incident in which he doused two sportswriters with water.

Kuhn suspended McLain on March 31, 1970, for his association with gamblers. That suspension ended July 1, but terms of the suspension also placed the pitcher on probation.

In the water throwing incident Tigers general manager Jim Campbell at first announced a suspension of "up to a month" but the suspension without pay was later pared to one week. That suspension was to have terminated at midnight Friday night.

Kuhn asked McLain to meet with his Wednesday, Sept. 9, to discuss the probation.

Kuhn released the following statement: "Under the terms of my decision of March 31, 1970, relating to Dennis D. McLain, he was suspended to July 1, 1970 and placed on probationary status. Information currently brought to my attention has raised the question as to whether McLain's conduct in recent weeks has been consistent with the requirements of his probationary status."

"Under the circumstances, I have advised McLain that he is not to report to the Detroit club until a hearing can be held on this subject with McLain present in New York City next Wednesday, Sept. 9. Pending the hearing, this office will have no further comment on this subject."

The Cardinals, who visited Lombardi four times in his last month during his losing battle against cancer, said apart from possibly being the greatest football coach of all time, he was a man who "didn't hesitate to show his love for God."

The Archbishop disclosed that Washington Senators' baseball manager Ted Williams "almost cried" when O'Boyle told him of Lombardi's death Thursday.

SPORTS WORLD PAYS RESPECT TO LOMBARDI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, saying "he had the ability to build the kind of character we need in these times," was among the first to pay his last respects to Vince Lombardi Friday when his body lay in state.

Accompanied by his wife and wearing a black suit, the white-haired Warren spent about 15 minutes inside the Gawler's Funeral Home Chapel where the body of the Redskins coach lay inside a closed bronze casket.

Near it, among banks of flowers, was a bouquet of red and white carnations from President Nixon, who led the nation in mourning the loss of Lombardi Thursday, victim of a fast spreading cancer.

Warren said Lombardi's ability to inspire men to greatness made him "a great citizen."

Other notables among those paying their respects were pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle and Edward Bennett Williams, president of the Washington Redskins. A little later Mayor Walter Washington of Washington came and so did football hall of famers Cliff Battles and Wayne Miller.

But most of those who paused to pay their respects to the fallen leader of the Redskins knew him only from the football stadium, on television or from his pictures in the newspapers.

The line was 100 feet long when the doors to the chapel opened and they came in twos and threes throughout the afternoon. A spokesman said the chapel would remain open as long as anyone came.

Lombardi's body will be taken to New York this morning and requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Patrick's Cathedral with Cardinal Terrence Cooke, a close friend of Lombardi's officiating. After the mass, Lombardi will be buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery near Red Bank, N.J.

Lombardi's team, with his longtime friend and protégé Bill Austin, now their coach, went ahead with their preparation for their exhibition game tonight with the Miami Dolphins.

"Coach Lombardi wouldn't want us to hang our heads," said Redskins offensive captain Len Hauss.

After the game, the team will fly to Washington Sunday and then go as a group to the funeral Monday.

A spokesman for the Redskins confirmed that Austin, personally picked by Lombardi to take over for him when cancer struck two months ago, would succeed the 57-year-old Lombardi. He said there would be no formal announcement, however.

Before the Miami game, Abbott Marlen Bowman, former president of St. Leo College, San Antonio, Fla., will present the invocation which will be followed by a moment of silence for Lombardi and the national anthem.

"It will be a very emotional night for all of us," said defensive halfback Dick Bass. "But the things he taught us, we won't forget, even though that great man is gone."

Lombardi's wife, Marie, who marked their 30th wedding anniversary Monday at his bedside where the former Green Bay leader was losing his battle against the disease, picked 10 friends and associates — including three Packers players — to be honorary pallbearers Monday.

The players were Bart Starr, Willie Davis and Paul

Horning. In addition, Mrs. Lombardi picked Col. Earl Blaik, former coach at West Point where Lombardi was his assistant; the Redskins president, Williams; and Richard Bonguignon and Tony Canadeo, both members of the Packers board of directors.

Others included Col. O. C. Krueger, formerly of the Packers and now with the Redskins, and two family friends, Ed Breslin of New York and R. B. Levitas of San Francisco.

Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle, Catholic Archbishop of Washington, said, "it is a paradox to me that all American, including the permissive, revered a man who is the very opposite of permissive. If the game had rules, he played by them."

The Cardinal, who visited Lombardi four times in his last month during his losing battle against cancer, said apart from possibly being the greatest football coach of all time, he was a man who "didn't hesitate to show his love for God."

BEAT METS, TIE FOR LEAD

Cubs, Leo Pull Right Moves

CHICAGO — Manager Leo Durocher, who has looked at his Chicago Cub bullpen like it was a plague of late, went wheeling and dealing Friday and came up with a 7-4 victory over the New York Mets.

"There aren't too many games left," smiled Durocher "and, as you fellows say, I had to do a little wheeling and dealing."

The victory was the first for the Cubs over the Mets in Wrigley Field this season after six consecutive losses and it moved them into a tie for first place with Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Leo's first big move came in the sixth inning. The Mets had tied the score in the top of the sixth on a three-run homer by Art Shamsky but Durocher allowed pitcher Bill Hands to bat for himself to open the bottom of the sixth.

Hands doubled and then was lifted for a pinch runner.

"Hands said he felt all right," said Leo, "but when I saw him struggle into second I figured he's all through. It also was the lead run and I wanted to get it home."

The Cubs didn't score the run but Roberto Rodriguez, who hadn't pitched since Aug. 18, checked the Mets in the top of the seventh and the Cubs scored three runs, two of them on Randy Hundley's bases-loaded single, to go ahead to stay.

Phil Regan failed in relief as the first two batters in the seventh singled but Juan Pizarro and Bob Miller, who retired the last five batters he faced, finished up to close out the Mets.

Chisox Raid Angels, Hire 2 Officials

CHICAGO — Chuck Tanner, manager of the Hawaii Islanders in the Pacific Coast League, was selected manager Friday of the Chicago White Sox.

Tanner, 41, an eight-season minor league manager in the Angels' system, was hired by Stu Holcomb, new Sox general manager, to replace Don Gutteridge.

Gutteridge was dismissed Wednesday.

Tanner will take over as manager of the Sox at the conclusion of the Pacific Coast League's championship series, which started Friday in Spokane, Wash. He will join the Sox no later than Sept. 15 when they play the Royals in Kansas City.

The White Sox also announced that Rowland Hemond, farm and scouting director of the Angels, had been hired as director of player personnel. He replaces Ed Short also fired in the shakeup.

"Rig like to go for defense when he gets a couple of runs ahead."

"Your damn right," Rigney snapped. As for Blyleven, Rigney said he told his young pitcher that "there will be other times and other places for heroics."

"And I still hope he can pitch for me every fourth day for the rest of my life," Rigney added, repeating a well-publicized statement attributed to him earlier this year.

The score was 3-0 before May, winless since Aug. 3, knew what hit him. After striking out the first two batters in the opening round, Harmon Killebrew coaxed a walk and Tony Oliva delivered the first of his four successive singles. Then Alvea ripped May's first offering over the left field fence.

The home run brought back sweet memories for the part-time Twin performer. Earlier this season he hit a grand slammer off Andy Messersmith at the Big A.

In his first time at bat in the big leagues, Alvea swung at the first pitch and hit it out of the park — and no one else in baseball can make that claim. The pitcher on that occasion in 1965 was none other than May.

Lefty Phillips was downcast but did not pull out a white flag.

"It's a shame that Rudy lost it on one pitch like that," he said. "He had excellent command — the best he's been for a while."

But it was the only second best Friday night.

Corkins Hits Slam, Padres Go Wild, Rout Reds, 15-2

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Home runs by Clarence Gaston, Nate Colbert and pitcher Mike Corkins, the latter's coming with the bases loaded, carried San Diego to a 15-2 thumping of Cincinnati Friday night. Gaston, got four hits and Colbert and Jose Arcia chipped in with three apiece to pace the Padres' 18-hit assault on four pitchers.

Twenty-game winner Jim Merritt was tagged with the loss, his 12th of the season.

The grand-slammer was the first major league homer for Corkins, who stopped the Reds with five hits, one a two-run homer by Bobby Tolan, before giving way to Paul Doyle in the eighth inning.

Ron Slocum's two-run triple gave the Padres a 2-0 lead in the second inning. They added five more in the fourth, four of them on Corkin's homer, which sent Merritt to the showers.

Jim Maloney, back on the active list, made his first appearance since rupturing an achilles tendon April 16, and was pounded for five runs, two of them coming on Gaston's homer during 1-3 innings of relief.

Maddox Sparks Tigers Past Nats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Late-inning replacement Elliott Maddox stroked a two-run tie-breaking double during a four-run ninth inning rally which lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 victory over the Washington Senators Friday night.

Maddox, who replaced shortstop Cesar Gutterez in the eighth inning, broke a 3-3 tie with his hit to score Jim Northrup and Don Wert with the winning runs. Ike Brown completed the scoring by singling to center to drive in Maddox. The Senators held a 3-2 lead going into the ninth. Frank Howard drove in all three Washington runs with a two-run double in the seventh and an RBI single in the eighth, setting an expansion club record of 112 runs batted for a season.

The Tigers opened scoring in the first inning on Mickey Stanley's opposite field triple and the first of two doubles by Al Kaline. The Senators, held to one hit over the first six innings, grabbed a brief 2-1 lead in the seventh on Howard's two-run double.

Rain Can't Stop Ducks, Color Oregon Contender

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

EUGENE — The DC-9 pulled up to the terminal and someone yelled, "Where are we, anyhow?" From the back of the plane came, "The schedule says Eugene, but it's pouring outside. Since when does it rain here this time of year?"

The arrival of the ram-paging Pacific-8 Conference Skywriters Friday coincided with the region's first moisture in 64 days. The storm brought smiles to the residents of the lush Willamette Valley and hardly dulled the enthusiasm and confidence of the University of Oregon football team.

The rain was so invigorating that head coach Jerry Frei staged a full-go scrimmage on the all-weather AstroTurf carpet in Autzen Stadium. It was weather AstroTurf carpet in the Fighting Ducks.

One gets the feeling, in talking with Frei and his players, that something big awaits Oregon's football fortunes this season. It has been expected, though, so color Oregon a contender.

When Frei took over in 1967, he immediately changed the team nickname from Ducks to Fighting Ducks. The team's improvement was less gradual: 2-8 (1967), 4-6 (1968) and 5-5-1 (1969).

"Three years ago we were trying to build some confidence and momentum and gain some pride," states Frei, who comes on with Kirk Douglas mannerisms and a face to match.

"We like to believe we have some of that going for us now. We also feel we have the players to play in this league." Oregon has gone through three-a-day drills in anticipation of meeting four conference foes in the first five weeks of play.

Much, if not all of Oregon's momentum hinges on much-X-rayed senior quarterback Tom Blanchard.

Now a 22-year-old senior, Blanchard missed five games as a sophomore starter in 1967, spraining an ankle in the opener and suffering a knee injury that required surgery in mid-season.

Redshirting in 1968 he needed an operation to correct a double hernia, incurred while lifting weights to strengthen the knee. He injured the same left knee and missed the last three games a year ago. The Mayo Clinic has requested Blanchard's body for its library of medical phenomenon after this season.

Blanchard was the PAC-8's third leading passer in 1969 with 57.6 per cent completions (106-184) for 1,488 yards and 12 touchdowns. His receivers Bobby Moore and Bob Newland ranked 1-2 in conference pass receiving, with 54 and 45 catches respectively.

Moore, the lone sophomore on the all-PAC-8 team, becomes an ever more awesome threat as a running back this campaign. Frei's biggest worry is how much punishment the 6-2, 212-pounder can take.

Greg Marshall, the best blocking back, returns at fullback but will share the spot opposite Moore with junior Thurman Anderson and redshirt Jimmy Jones. Anderson, a 197-pounder from Long Beach Poly, is expected to see heavy duty, especially whenever Moore moves to a receiving spot.

The backfield, unlike other schools will operate behind a veteran line, where nine of the 10 regulars return and the 10th is a 6-5, 246-pound sophomore.

Defensive Frei has followed suit with much of the nation going to a 4-3 alignment, decidedly more effective in this, the year of the pass.

The back line is anchored by Lionel Colemann, a 24-year-old service veteran, and Bill Drake, who could play anyone of five offensive or defensive positions.

Linebacker Tom Graham will again pummel enemy ball carriers. The 6-3, 232-pound potential all-America from Harbor City opened his "super soph" campaign a year ago with 20 tackles in his first varsity game and clinaxed it with an unbelievable 41 stops (24 un-sisted) against Oregon State.

Oregon defensive worries lie in the front trench, where there are only four lettermen among the first three lines. "Our pass rush depends on how well we do defensively this year," cautions Frei.

Two of OU's down four won't be hard to spot, 5-7, 204-pound Dave Walker and 6-8, 266-pound Mike Williams. "If we know they're going to run, we want little Dave in there. He's exceptional but has obvious physical problems against the pass," winks Frei.

"Williams was recruited as a three-sport man in high school but has concentrated on track (59-10 1/2 shotputter). Now he wants to play football and the coaching staff couldn't be happier."

But in the year of the passer, Oregon's hopes like those of most all PAC-8 schools — hinge on the quarterback. Mayo Clinic is anxiously awaiting Tom Blanchard.

OFFENSIVE: "Will be good enough to score on anybody," says Frei. DEFENSE: Best line-backer on coast; but group needs help from ball-control offense to mature gradually.

QUARTERBACK: Injury to Blanchard and Fighting Ducks are finished fowl.

RECEIVERS: Best in conference, statistically, will make team contender.

SUNDAY: Oregon State

Clay Has License, May Meet Quarry in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Cassius Clay, who still claims the world heavyweight title, will box either Jerry Quarry or Oscar Bonavena in Atlanta Oct. 26, a promoter said Friday.

The understanding here is that it most likely will be Quarry, ranked as the No. 1 contender by Ring Magazine and No. 3 by the World Boxing Assn.

State Sen. Leroy Johnson made the announcement. He said efforts to make a fight between Philadelphia's Joe Frazier, now recognized as heavyweight king in most parts of the world, and Clay had failed because Frazier is committed to a title defense against world light heavyweight champion Bob Foster of Washington, D.C.

Clay, who prefers the name of Muhammad Ali, now has a license to box in Atlanta. He boxed eight rounds against three opponents here Wednesday in his first public fighting appearance in more than three years. The show was co-promoted by House of Lords and Sports Action, Inc.

Although the unbeaten Clay has been anxious to fight for some time he was refused a license in many states because of his conviction for ducking the draft. He is appealing the conviction.

Johnson said he expected to make the announcement of the signing of Clay and his opponent for the fight at Toots Shor's restaurant in New York, Sept. 26.

The politician-promoter said he and others interested in the fight met Thursday in Philadelphia with Yank Durham, Frazier's manager.

He said that Durham told them that Frazier could not fight Clay Oct. 26, "notwithstanding the fact that we'd done what we said we would do, and notwithstanding that, Ali Clay had exhibited his license to fight."

Johnson said Durham told him that he never believed Clay would be allowed to fight in Atlanta and that he kept this belief up until Clay's exhibitions here last Wednesday night.

victory over the Buffalo Bills in a National Football League pre-season game.

The only bright spot of the night for the offensively weak Bills was the pro baptism for rookie quarterback Dennis Shaw, the nation's major college leading ground-gainer last season at San Diego State. Shaw, playing the second half, completed 11 of 22 passes for 150 yards and set the stage for Buffalo's touchdown by hurling consecutive aeriols of 17 and 24 yards to Marlin Briscoe and Haven Moses. Mini-Max Anderson scored the TD from one yard out.

Neither team sparkled in the first half, although Atlanta had three tries for field goals.

In the third period, Atlanta put the ball in play on Buffalo's 31 after Grady Allen intercepted a Shaw pass. After four penalties, two against each team, Johnson hit Gipson with the touchdown pass. The score followed Vinyard's three-pointer.

The Steelers were in complete command from opening kickoff as the Patriots went with Ken Hammond at quarterback. Mike Taliaferro, their first string quarterback, sat out the entire game with a sore shoulder.

Bradshaw opened the Steelers' scoring midway of the first quarter on a one-yard run. Later in the same quarter, veteran Dick Hoak bulled up the middle for one yard and another touchdown.

Hanratty scored his touchdown on a two-yard run in the second period as the Steelers left the field at halftime with a 21-0 lead.

Gene Mingo made it 24-0 with 6:44 remaining in the third period with a 25-yard field goal.

Hanratty again replace Bradshaw in the fourth quarter and threw a five-yard scoring strike to Dennis Hughes.

Allan Watson, a soccer-type kicker from Wales, booted the first three extra points and Mingo converted after Hanratty's touchdown pass.

Gino Capaletti booted a 13-yard field goal with 12:20 remaining for the Patriots' scores.

Bradshaw went to the air 15 times in the two quarters he played, connecting on eight for 85 yards, his longest completion a 21-yarder.

U.S. Wins More Gold in Games

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Tom Ulan of Rutgers University gained the United States' 20th gold medal at the sixth World University Games Friday by winning the 400 meters in 45.9 seconds for a Games record.

The Soviet Union ranks second in the competition with 18 golds.

East Germany dominated Friday's events by picking up three of the six golds in track and field, giving it a total of six golds in two days.

Britain and Austria got their first gold medals in the men's long jump and in the women's 400 meters, respectively. Maria Sykora of Austria was clocked in 52.8 seconds for a games record.

Alan Lerwill of Britain scored an upset in the long jump with a leap of 25 feet, 11 1/2 inches, finishing ahead of Arnie Robinson, San Diego State, who was second with 25-6 1/2.

Meanwhile, the American basketball team defeated Yugoslavia 93-81 in a final round game. The Americans face the Soviet Union today for the title.

expect a great performance from us."

Marv Fleming, a former Green Bay player now with Miami, said, "He was a very tough person, but one you could respect very much when you got to know his ideas. He just wanted to win more than anyone I've ever known."

The surprising Dolphins are unbeaten in four pre-season games while the Redskins, under acting coach Bill Austin, have compiled a 3-1 mark.

The Dolphins pin their hopes for a fifth successive win on the arm of quarterback Bob Griese, who has a 70.4 passing percentage while throwing four TD passes. Neither Griese nor backup John Stofa has been intercepted in pre-season play.

The Cleveland-Minnesota game is expected to be a headknocker. Vikings coach Bud Grant says he's "going all out to win and has no plans to test any rookies." Browns coach Blanton Collier will have to give considerable playing time to his defensive linemen and defensive backs since he must make cuts to pare the roster from 52 to 44 players by next week.

Joe Namath is expected to log more playing time in the Jets' outing against New Orleans. The Jets are expected to use their star quarterback at least a half against the Saints.

Dallas hopes to "put it all together" against Kansas City as coach Tom Landry gets a closer look at his would-be starters. The Chiefs take a 3-2 record into the contest while the Cowboys are 1-3.

One game is scheduled Sunday, sending Oakland across the bay to San Francisco.

By Joe Mooney

Whenever you think about overcoming handicaps, did you know that men with only one arm have played big league baseball, and big-time football, too? ... Examples in 1945, outfielder Pete Gray, played in 77 American League games for the St. Louis Browns. ... And, Guard Ellis Jones was a star on the highly-ranked Tulsa football team of the early 1940's, and played in three bowl games: The Sugar Bowl of 1943-44 and the Orange Bowl of 1945.

Can you guess how long it's been since a country other than the U.S. or Australia won the Davis Cup of tennis? ... The last time was back in 1936 when the winner was England.

Here's a football question that looks easy, but it's surprising how few fans — even the really good ones — can answer it. ... Try this one on your friends: Everybody knows a football field is 100 yards long from goal line to goal line — but, do you know how WIDE a football field is? ... 760 feet, or 53-1/3 yards wide.

I bet you didn't know that Tom O'Shanter, "the golfer's Scotch," now is imparted for you at a truly sporting price — the biggest Scotch bargain in California.

Forest Hills Bans See-Through Dress

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — A mild furor was raised in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Friday when the tournament referee banned a see-through dress worn by a pretty Swedish competitor.

"I was never so embarrassed in my life," said Ingrid Bentzer of Stockholm. "Capt Mike Gibson came up to me in my first round match and told me I couldn't wear the dress I had on."

"He said it was illegal. I felt as if I had violated good taste."

The incident provided the biggest tennis style scandal since Gussie Moran's lace panties shook up the staid British at Wimbledon in 1949.

Teddy Tulin, the famous London style designer who is here for the tournament, figured in both episodes.

"I was playing Peaches Bartkowicz," Miss Bentzer, 22, blonde, long-haired and shapely, said. "Capt. Gibson came on the court and said I must wear another dress."

"I told him I had no other tennis dress. He said I might finish my match but not wear it again. I was mortified."

Miss Bentzer was beaten by Miss Bartkowicz 6-2, 6-2.

She had to borrow a less sexy dress.

"I see nothing wrong with the dress," she said. "It is made of very frail lace with a skin colored lining."

Gibson, who also is the referee at Wimbledon, said the dress violated the all-white rules of the West Side Tennis Club and not any rules of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. or the International Lawn Tennis Federation, both of which now are permitting colors.

Observers said Gibson's action was provoked because of the see-through effect.

"There is nothing objectionable about the dress," Tulin, himself a picture in flowered knee-length jacket and dangling chains, said. "I have tried to incorporate modern-style trends into tennis attire."

"The modern-style is the nude look. These dresses only create an illusion. You appear to see bare skin but you do not. They are not at all offensive."

Sudden-Death Not Suited for Pancho

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Pancho Gonzales survived two tie breaks for a second round victory over a hard-smashing Russian Friday but he still doesn't like the new sudden death scoring system in the U.S. Open Tennis championships.

"I got so nervous out there I thought I was going to have a heart attack," the 42-year-old perennial pro from Los Angeles said. "Although I won, I still don't think the tie break is good for an old man like me."

Gonzales, bidding for the $20,000 open first prize on the same center court where he won the national title in 1948 and 1949 as an amateur, beat Vladimir Korotkov, a 21-year-old Moscow student, 7-6, 6-3, 7-6.

It was a tough scramble played in gusty winds.

Korotkov, impressing a gallery of 12,000 with his speed and agility, ran up a 5-3 lead in the first set and in the third had Gonzales down 0-30 on service while leading 5-4.

However, each time the tie break is good for an old man like me."

Gonzales, bidding for the released the pressure. He hit the sideline with a chalk-raiser one time. Another time he sent a lob which landed on the back stripe.

"I think this is unfair," Gonzales said. "I think each man should have the same number of services. I had the advantage because I had a better serve and I had five to Vladimir's four."

Gonzales advanced with a cordon of favorites, including Australians Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson, and Ray Ruffels plus America's Davis Cup hero, Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., Manuel Santana of Spain and Holland's formidable Tom Okker.

COMPUTER CORNER RUBY BEST BET FOR ONTARIO

Automobile racing, 21st century style, takes off at the new Ontario motor speedway Sunday with the inaugural 500 mile.

Space age technology ties the 33 racers to a central computer with individual radio beepers which transmit the car's speed and position. Fans will be able to tell where their cars stand during every racing second.

What is the most likely winning speed at Ontario? And what one statistic best predicts the winner's time?

According to The Sports Computer's Univac analysis of best Indy 500 races, the best predictor is the average qualifying speed of the field. Reason winners must reduce speed to lap the slower cars. So it's really not a race — it's a fast traffic jam.

Average qualifying speed at Ontario 500 is a fantastic 172.54, 2 mph better than Indy's 1970 top qualifier, winner Al Unser (170.22), and more than 5 mph faster than Indy's 1970 field average (167.139).

Danger? A nine degree slope between track and apron, which drivers can feel, also designed to keep drivers honest and on the track. At Indy a white line is their only guide, and they tend to cheat across the line in the turns. Ontario's high chastity belt may keep them pure. Or in heaven.

Full Foreign Card at Forum Tonight

Promoter George Parnassus stages another "United Nations" night of boxing at The Forum tonight with two Japanese, one Venezuelan and five Mexican main eventers seeing ring combat.

Four feature events will be presented — three 10-rounders and one 12-rounder — starting at 8 o'clock.

The top bout pairs the No. 4 and No. 8 world ranked bantamweights, Mexico's Rodolfo Martinez and Shintaro Uchiyama of Japan. Martinez, considered as a serious rival of world bantam king Ruben Olivares, has a neat 26-0-1 record, highlighted by 25 knockouts.

In three prior Los Angeles appearances, the 22-year-old bomber has stopped Lenny Brice, Kazuyoshi Kanazawa and Yoshio Suda.

Uchiyama, holder of the Japanese 118 pound title, has a clever southpaw style that could give the favored Martinez plenty of problems. He has a 26-2-2 record.

Another top match brings together Antonio Gomez of Venezuela and Mexico's Fernando Sotelo in a 12-rounder for the vacant North American featherweight championship.

Gomez, the No. 2 challenger with a 26-1-0 slate, will be shooting for his third knockout victory at The Forum. He posted knockouts over Dwight Hawkins and Gil Noriega.

Sotelo recently took the Mexican featherweight title with a knockout over Vicente Garcia. He also halted ex-bantam champ Lionel Rose as well as Alfredo Marciano and Jose Jimenez.

In the two additional 10-rounders, Mexico City bantams Famoso Gomez and Rafael Herrera, are rated all even, while Japanese bantam Shuji Chiyoda is picked over Italmi Gutierrez of Mexico City.

Good seats, priced at $7.50, $5.50 and $3.50 are available.

New Coaches Arrive at Cal State

Ken Edwards and John Wadas have been added to coaching staffs at Cal State Long Beach.

Edwards will replace Ed DeLacey as Jerry Tankanian's basketball assistant coach and Wadas will take over the wrestling team, a position held last year by Chuck Bishop.

DeLacey resigned to accept the head coaching assignment at Santa Barbara City College while Bishop has left to work with the Jordan High School wrestlers.

Edwards, a graduate of Nevada-Las Vegas, has been an assistant coach at Cal State L.A. the past three years. He is 26 and lives in Pasadena with his wife Judy and sons David (3) and Gregory (1).

Wadas is a 26-year-old graduate of CSLB. He was a two-year letterman in wrestling and soccer and was 137-pound runnerup in both the California Collegiate and Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. in 1969.

Until this Thursday night that is, when Gervase de Peyer made his Bowl debut playing the Clarinet Concerto, a piece absent from this outdoor setting for exactly a decade.

The British clarinetist, well remembered for two previous visits here as a member of the legendary, though still very much alive, Melos Ensemble, made a great occasion of this great work, playing it with that simplicity and directness achieved only by the elite among Mozarteans.

Yes, some untoward sounds left his instrument during the performance, sounds caused perhaps by nerves, perhaps by climatic conditions — it was another very cold night up Cahuenga Pass, and a bit damp, too. But there was no mistaking the integrity, the tonal suavity and the classical reserve in this reading. Karel Ancerl, leading the Los Angeles

Philharmonic in the accompaniment, let them fall behind (as he had also two nights earlier), and even allowed some covering of the soloist — particularly in the slow movement — but he could not spoil the occasion for us.

In the evening's main course, Mahler's First Symphony, Ancerl found motion no problem. Indeed, he seemed to have taken the composer's third-movement direction, "ohne zu schleppen," to apply to the entire work, and he pushed things along accordingly.

But motion and motivation are not the same thing, and, though the listener was given no opportunities for napping here, it would be too much to call this reading compelling. It went along, all right, but it did not enlist our sympathies in those ways we know this work can.

In this regard, the prolix finale came closest to genuine Mahlerian heat, yet only after what we must report were pedestrian accounts of the first three movements. What Ancerl lacks, I suspect, most of all, is a great deal of temperament. That he actually attempted a "straight" reading of that irresistible hora which interrupts the third movement tells us something about his sense of humor. Too bad — this piece can be such a joy.

LITTLE EGYPT STILL TOPS, UNWORRIED BY NUDE TREND

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — You would think belly dancers, with the advent of topless and bottomless performers, might have gone the way of buggie whips when the internal combustion engine came along.

Not so.

Little Egypt, a Lebanese beauty who is related to the original Little Egypt of the 1893 Chicago Fair, is as much in demand as ever.

But how can a girl wearing a bra, veil and modest (higher than bikini) bottoms compete with the exhibitionist females who prance around in their birthday suits?

"They haven't hurt my career," said Little Egypt in a stong Brooklyn accent.

"I think audiences like to see authentic and realistic dancing," she says, adding that she doubts nude dancing would qualify as an authentic art.

Little Egypt was in Hollywood for a top role in NBC's "Gideon" with Peter Ustinov and Jose Ferrer which will be aired next spring.

TAPS FOR REVEILLE

Brass Reviews

Army Bugle Calls

WASHINGTON — Millions of American men remember it well: The cold, predawn silence of a barracks, the occasional snore, someone babbling in his sleep, and as the sky brightens a bit, the peppy blast of the bugle. Reveille!

Well, reveille may be on its way out.

An Army study group has looked at the idea for a couple of years — along with a lot of other things that could aggravate today's recruit, and recom-

Mandatory Flag Pledge Held Not Constitutional

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — An Anne Arundel County Circuit Court judge has overturned a law requiring all students and teachers in Maryland public schools to begin each day with a pledge of allegiance to the United States flag.

Judge Matthew S. Evans said the law, enacted by the 1970 General Assembly, violated constitutional guarantees of free speech and one section was unconstitutional.

Evans said the state has not shown a student's or teacher's refusal to salute the flag and recite the pledge would interfere with appropriate discipline in the school, and therefore the portion of the act which requires a compulsory flag salute and recitation of the pledge of allegiance was unconstitutional.

He labeled as unconstitutional vague a section prohibiting an act of disrespect toward the flag or salute.

mended taps for reveille. The final decision is up to Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland.

Along with the bugle wake-up, in most cases it's a recording, the Army study group would junk the accompanying formation of all the fellows outside the barracks a few minutes later.

The whole idea of reveille is to get a head count every morning, read a few instructions, and get everybody off on the same foot.

But there are other ways to do these things, the Army figures. "These kids today understand what time they're supposed to get up and be some place," says Brig. Gen. James Adamson, chief of the group studying ways to make the Army more attractive, and all-volunteer at the same time.

In fact, Adamson has found in his trips to Army bases in the U.S. and Europe that some commanders already have done away with reveille.

"Many commanders already know kids are different than they were 20 years ago," he says.

Well, what was wrong with the kids 20 years ago? Couldn't they tell time, or when to get up?

"Why we've done it all these years, I don't know," Adamson says. In a broader sense, he says "everything we do should be critically analyzed."

Some other practices on shaky ground are harassment, seven-day work weeks in some cases, and that old sergeant's favorite, "make work."
